By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 8.—Prosecutor Hart of Bergen County New Jersey, informed New York police headquarters today from Hackensack that Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKenzie had positively identified a child known as Mildred Grofe, found in Englewood, N. J., as their daughter, Lillian, who was kidnapped here in August, 1923. The identification ends a search in which police of more than 300 cities in the United States and Canada were asked to aid.

The child identified by Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie as their own, had been living in Englewood, as Mildred Grofe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Grofe. Mannerisms of the child and facial characteristics, Hart told Police Captain Ayers, indicated beyond any doubt that the child was the missing Lillian McKenzie.

Says Girl Was Given to Her.
The prosecutor said that Mrs. Grofe had said the girl was given to her by a "Dr. Green." This "Dr. Green," Captain Ayers said, was quoted by Prosecutor Hart as saying that he had obtained the girl when a young baby, from an unmarried mother named Sullivan. Lillian McKenzie was kidnapped from her perambulator in front of an Eighteenth street department store in Manhattan when she was 3 months old. In the country-wide search for her clues were followed in Hoboken, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Washington and other cities and towns. Roy Scouts, Girl Guides and the Salvation Army joined in the search.

Doctor Gave Tip.
The search was turned toward the child known as Mildred Grofe when Dr. Bernard Gottlieb of Manhattan revealed to detectives a few days ago that he had attended a sickly, ill-nourished baby girl at the home of Mrs. Grofe on Aug. 21, 1923, nine days after the McKenzie baby was kidnapped. A few nights later Dr. Gottlieb said, Mrs. Grofe brought the child to his office for his first visit. He said her answers to his questions were evasive and aroused his suspicions. He told the investigators that he could offer evidence that the child was the McKenzie baby. At the time he treated the baby Dr. Gottlieb lived in Audubon avenue, Manhattan. They later moved to Englewood.

Dr. Gottlieb said that when he had attended the baby at Mrs. Grofe's call the child was suffering so seriously from malnutrition he had to take extreme measures to save her life. Mrs. Grofe explained, he said, that the baby's condition was due to the fact that she and her husband had been on a trip in England, leaving the infant in the care of a woman who knew little about babies.

COOLIDGE'S EASTER OUTFIT
WILL COST LESS THAN $75

WASHINGTON, April 8.—According to the story being handed out by Washington, President Coolidge's Easter outfit will cost well under $75. The biggest outfit will be for a 555 domestic worsted suit, like the one he wore when Vice-President. These suits served him satisfactorily that he sees no reason to desert them, and despite the popular opinion that he might be tempted with an imported fabric, he insisted on something made in the United States.

Mr. Coolidge's last year's hat was sent to be rebeked and cleaned and then returned with a new ribbon some of the cost of the reconstruction is placed at around $250. The story now goes that he has had half-soles put on a pair of shoes.

CROSS-WORDS SELL REALTY

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, April 8.—The cross-words puzzle can sell real estate, it was revealed in a suit filed in Superior Court by J. D. Callcott against J. E. Danziger and Marion Kohn for an accounting and dissolution of partnership.

Callcott alleges he perfected a system of selling lots in a Los Angeles subdivision through cross-word puzzle advertisements, and that the system worked so well that he and the defendants earned with it an income of from $100 to $1000 a day. Now, states his complaint, Danziger and Kohn are trying to gain control of the business for themselves and have denied him access to the firm's books and accounts.

Special "Gun Court" for Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A special "gun court," in which all indictments charging robbery with a revolver will be heard, it is announced by Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins, soon will be established here. Establishment of the court is one of the steps contemplated by the criminal court to dispose of the heavy dockets that now face the judges. There are 1376 indictments now awaiting trial in Cook County.

FRENCH CAPTAIN ACCUSED OF DESERTION ACQUITTEDHe Previously Had Been Sentenced to Death, But Returned From Russia and Obtained New Trial.

ORLEANS, France, April 8.—Capt. Jacques Sadoul, French army officer charged with desertion while on a military mission to Russia in 1919, was acquitted by a majority vote of the courtmartial here which has been trying him for the last 10 days.

Sadoul, when abroad, was condemned to death on charges of desertion, having intelligence with the enemy, and for inciting soldiers to disobedience. He entered France, unobserved by the police, but later was arrested. During his absence he had been convicted by default and sentenced to death.

After returning to France he obtained a retrial. His defense was that he did not desert from the army, because he was under no obligation to return to France; that France was not at war with Russia, and that the charges of inciting to disobedience came under the amnesty act.

While in Russia Sadoul became a soviet commissary and while it was alleged he acted as informer against former comrades in the French army, his supporters declared that he gave notable assistance in projecting the French remaining in Russia.

POLICE INVESTIGATE CHARGES OF ATTEMPT TO POISON DOGS

Police are investigating complaints of vandalism and attempts to poison dogs in the neighborhood of 4400 Blair avenue, George Smith, who lives at 4429 Blair avenue, reported that he had found poisoned sausage in his yard, but had discovered it before his dog had eaten any. He also said that three glass windows in his garage had been smashed with bricks and the garage dented with paint.

Mrs. H. J. Whitson and Mrs. Kuhne, who live on either side of Smith, have also complained of finding poisoned meat in their yards.

It is understood that certain neighbors have complained that the barking of dogs in the neighborhood has disturbed the sleep of residents.

ENGAGEMENT OF MARCONI AND ENGLISH GIRL IS REPORTED

LONDON, April 8.—The Daily Express says today that when it questioned Mrs. George Paynter, the wife of the inventor, about the reported engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth Narcissa Paynter, to Guglielmo Marconi, the wireless inventor, she replied: "Nothing definite regarding an engagement can be said yet, whatever may be made known in the future."

Marconi, according to the Express, is now aboard his yacht Electra at Gibraltar and but for illness would have been at the Paynter home yesterday to celebrate the eighteenth birthday of Miss Elizabeth. Mrs. Paynter said it was not a normal act, but was not necessarily an evidence of insanity. Marconi then asked what the witness thought of the behavior of a girl, who when arrested for such a

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—Dorothy Ellingson, 17-year-old slayer of her mother, took the witness stand in Superior Court here today at her trial for sanity. Judge Louderback satisfied himself that the defendant understood the nature of an oath before he allowed her to be sworn.

The Court then informed the girl that she would not be forced to answer any question which might incriminate her. Assistant District Attorney Harmon Skiffins then began to interrogate the witness. He asked her categorical questions, where the county jail was, the names of her attorneys, where they were seated. She gave her responses in low but clear voice, answering every query tersely.

Asked About Charge.
"Are you charged with any criminal act?" inquired the prosecutor. "I am," said the girl.

"What is that charge?" "Murder,"

The examination proceeded with a test of the girl's knowledge of the legal procedure that culminated in the present sanity trial before a special jury. She then gave the names of the alienists who examined her at the county jail. She showed no nervousness. She was a model of composure in a tan gown.

With reference to the charge of murder, she said it was the duty of the jury in such a case to find her guilty or not guilty and if the verdict were guilty she would go to prison.

Severe Cross-Examination.

Sylvester J. McAtee, of defense counsel then put his client through a stiff cross examination. He asked her why she threw water at him in court yesterday and called him a liar.

"Because," she explained, "numerous things have been brought out in this court that are not true."

When McAtee went into events following the death of her mother, the girl responded calmly. She stood on her constitutional rights and refused to answer several questions touching on the "party" she attended the night after she killed her mother.

"I do not wish to answer these questions," asked the Court. "It might bear on my defense to the murder charge," said the defendant. The Court upheld her.

McAtee said that in view of the fact that the Court had sided with the witness, he could ask no further questions, since she might refuse to answer. Judge Louderback then asked the girl if she had any further statement to volunteer. She said "No," and left the stand 30 minutes. Final arguments were begun after her testimony.

During a hysterical outburst yesterday, the girl cried: "Wait until I take the stand and tell about it, then the truth will come out!"

The wrangling between Dr. Joseph Catron, prosecution alienist, and McAtee, surcharged the atmosphere of the court yesterday. Two expert alienists for the prosecution testified that it was their belief that the girl was sane.

With political wagers running to a greater total than in any previous mayoralty campaign here, supporters of Victor J. Miller, who backed their judgment with money, are approximately $1,000,000 ahead as a result of the primary and yesterday's election, according to Tom Kearney, well-known betting commissioner, in whose shop at 497 Walnut street, a large number of bets were placed.

Half of this million was pocketed after the primary on odds of two to five against Miller, and half as a result of the final race, with bets going as a rule at even money. "There was more wagering on this election than in any election I have ever seen," Kearney said today. "It is impossible to estimate the total of bets placed because they have been betting all over town. It was at least a million dollars. You could place a bet in nearly every saloon, cigar stand, restaurant, pool room, barber shop or hotel in town. People who never bet before have been betting on this race."

"For two weeks I have had two men in my shop constantly answering 'phones to take bets. At least 20 people made bets with me who said they had never wagered before."

Kearney declined to estimate the amount of bets which had passed through his hands, nor his own profit.

When betting on the final race began shortly after the primary, Miller was 2-to-1 favorite. Later the betting was at even money between individuals to bet with a commissioner one had to give 5 to 4 on either candidate.

The only time that odds in favor of Igoe were in evidence, according to Kearney, was last night at the City Hall while the votes were being counted. A rumor went out that the Democrats were holding out precincts where big Igoe pluralities were polled, in order to clean up on the betting. A few wagers were offered at 2-to-1 for Igoe.

William L. Igoe, the Democratic nominee for Mayor, today issued the following statement:

"The returns of yesterday's election show that a very large number of Republicans and independent voters cast their ballots for me. That fact gives me cause for just pride and satisfaction."

"No matter what the final official count may record, I shall always be grateful to the many thousands who supported me so loyally, even at the sacrifice of partisan ties and traditions."

"I shall always owe gratitude to the men and women who worked so unselfishly and devotedly to elect me and I wish them to know that I could not be more indebted to them if the result had been what they expected it to be. I trust I shall be pardoned for regarding the vote for me as a proof of public confidence in me."

Igoe's campaign assistants, when the unofficial returns indicated Miller's election by a close margin, inquired about the possibility of a contest of the election. "I have not thought of a contest," Igoe replied.

It was indicated today, at the Igoe headquarters, that the question of a contest of the election would be discussed later between the Igoe managers.

Both the Igoe and Miller forces yesterday requested the Election Board to place the ballot boxes under police guard at the City Hall, which was done.

Miller, after being up most of the night watching the returns, was awakened at 10:30 this morning. He said he had no statement.

St. Louis remains wholly in Republican control as the result of yesterday's municipal election, in which Victor J. Miller, running 17,000 votes behind his party strength, was elected Mayor over William L. Igoe, Democratic candidate, who ran 13,000 ahead of his party vote. Miller's unofficial vote was 120,417, and Igoe's 117,221, giving Miller a plurality of 3196.

Louis Nolte, re-elected Comptroller, ran 7000 ahead of his party strength, and had a plurality of 53,200, on the unofficial count, over Eugene J. Sartorius, Democrat.

The present strength of the two parties was shown in the contest for 14 seats on the Board of Aldermen, the Aldermen being elected on a general ticket. Little personal campaigning had been done, on a city-wide scale, for or against any of the aldermanic candidates, and the vote for the new Republican nominees varied little from that of those who sought re-election on their official records. The Republican vote for Aldermen was between 14,000 and 137,500, and the Democratic vote 96,090 to 98,000.

80 Per Cent of Registration.

The total vote for Miller and Igoe was 237,638. This bears out the Election Board's estimate, made soon after the polls closed at 7 p. m., that the entire vote cast would exceed 240,000, or 80 per cent of the registration of 298,896. The Socialist vote, which was not computed in the unofficial count, is expected to add between 4000 and 5000 in making up the aggregate. In the 1921 city election, the Socialist candidate for Mayor got 4320 votes.

The official count, to be made within a few days, will show the Socialist poll, and may make slight changes in the Miller and Igoe figures, and in the unofficial vote for Aldermen. In past elections the unofficial vote has differed slightly, if at all, from the official vote.

Miller, elected at the age of 36, after a spectacular career in local politics, to the city's chief official position, will be inaugurated Tuesday, April 21, succeeding Henry W. Kiel, who has been Mayor for three four-year terms, since 1913. Miller's victory yesterday was by a much smaller plurality than those which Kiel received in his two campaigns, but the Miller plurality is several hundred larger than that of 2285 which Kiel had, when first elected in 1913, over Dr. John H. Simon. At that time, the registration was a little more than one-half the present registration, women being then disfranchised.

30,000 Under Baker's Vote.
Miller's vote is nearly 28,000 less than that which Gov. Baker received in St. Louis last November, while Igoe ran nearly 19,000 ahead of the vote polled here by Dr. Nel. of the Democratic candidate for Governor.

Igoe's vote is the highest ever recorded in St. Louis.

INDICTMENT AGAINST DOCTOR INVALIDATED

U. S. to Resubmit Charges Against E. M. Smith and Nurse in Death of Veteran.

The indictment returned by the Federal grand jury on Feb. 13 charging Miss Esther Johnson, a nurse, and Dr. E. M. Smith, X-ray operator, a St. Louisian, both of whom formerly were employed at the United States Veterans' Hospital here, with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of a patient at the hospital, has been invalidated by a ruling of Federal Judge Farris on Monday.

While the ruling was in sustaining a demurrer to the indictment filed for Dr. Smith, the effect is to invalidate the charge against Miss Johnson. Assistant District Attorney Crooks, in charge of the case, said it would be resubmitted to the grand jury next month, with a request for a new and valid indictment.

Edward B. Weston of Cedar Rapids, Ia., the patient, died of metal poisoning, but the indictment did not specify that metal is a poison and, therefore, failed to charge an offense against the Federal laws, the Court ruled. Judge Farris said the wording of the indictment did not specify that metal is a poison and, therefore, failed to charge an offense against the Federal laws, the Court ruled. Judge Farris said the wording of the indictment would prevent him from taking judicial notice of the fact that metal is poisonous and from instructing the jury to that effect.

Weston was given a fluoroscopic examination of the digestive organs, the fluoroscope being a mobile X-ray device. He was given a drink of buttermilk supposed to contain barium sulphate, which makes a shadow visible under the instrument, but Dr. Smith, watching, did not see the shadow. It was found that metal, which was used in X-ray photographic work in the adjacent laboratory, had been put in the drink instead of barium sulphate.

Miss Johnson was employed in the X-ray department in a supervisory capacity. Inquiry at the time which resulted in a coroner's verdict of accident, after Weston died, Feb. 23, 1924, showed that the metal and barium sulphate bottles had been mixed when painters were at work in the department. There was a conflict of testimony as to whether the metal bottles were labeled. Dr. Smith, Miss Johnson and an attendant were dismissed from the hospital service after Weston died. The indictment charged that Dr. Smith and Miss Johnson "knowingly, wilfully, feloniously and without due caution or circumspection prescribed and caused to be administered" to Weston the metal.

UNION LABOR THREATENS TO BOYCOTT WASHINGTON BANKS

Charges Institutions Have Put Kan on Loans to Builders Where Wages Advanced.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Washington banks are threatened with a boycott by union labor in connection with the dispute growing out of an adjustment of wages in the building trades.

Charging that the banks have taken a hand in the fight between the workmen and the master builders, the Central Labor Union yesterday asked the banks for a "showdown."

The complaint of the labor unions is that the banks have notified builders they will make no loans on buildings where wages have been advanced. The charge is denied by most of the banks. Some of the big downtown institutions, however, make it plain they do not favor any further increases in wages in the building trades.

The banks were notified that the Central Labor Union is prepared to "list" all banks that do not deny the charge. John Colpoys, Department of Labor mediator, is endeavoring to settle the difficulties between the labor unions and the builders.

Stay Up in London to Hear KDKA.

LONDON, April 8.—A lot of Americans and British slept late this morning, having been up most of the night in the hope of being able to dance to music broadcast by Station KDKA, Pittsburgh. The music was picked up in one of the larger restaurants, but the strains came either too loud or too faintly, and the experiment was not a complete success. The first tunes began coming in at 1 o'clock this morning, and, while the music was clear at brief intervals, there was no attempt at dancing. But several hundred guests stayed on and on, finally going home just before daylight, after they had heard what is claimed to be the first public wireless concert from the United States given in London.

Effective Charm and Distinctiveness in a Variety of New Models

THE many fascinating style developments that make the new modes so attractive find delightful expression in this group which includes models suitable for every phase of the season's activities.

Georgettes fashion afternoon and dinner gowns—dotted crepes are developed into frocks for links—twill is used for ensembles—and satin is trimmed in lace or embroidery for afternoon frocks. Two of the many models are pictured at the right.

(The Costume Salon—Third Floor.)

54-In. French Crepe With Graduated Satin Stripes

$5.95 Yard

TO make a smart Easter frock quickly and economically, choose this 54-inch French Crepe that has recently arrived in the Silk Salon.

Satin stripes in self color, graduating from ½-inch to 6-inch width, band the fabric at intervals and create a rich effect that obviates the necessity for trimming.

In the new 54-inch width, only 1½ yards are required to fashion a straight short-sleeve frock—so the result is economical as well as extremely smart.

CHAPMAN'S LAWYERS EXPECT NEW EVIDENCE

They Receive Tips About Witnesses Who Will Back Up Condemned Man's Alibi.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HARTFORD, Conn., April 8.—From a public whose sympathy has been aroused for Gerald Chapman, convicted in Hartford of murder and sentenced to be hanged, Frederick J. Goehl, chief of Chapman's lawyers, continues to receive tips purporting to show that Chapman could not have killed the patrolman Skelly in New Britain, Conn., on Oct. 12.

Goehl believes these will be productive of new evidence with which to support a motion for a new trial. Goehl says a New Yorker has come forward prepared to swear he saw Chapman on the way to Brooklyn the night before the murder. Such testimony would fit into Chapman's alibi which the jury rejected.

Chapman, lying in his death cell in Wethersfield penitentiary yesterday, continued to read away the hours which stretch between him and the dawn of June 25, when he is to die.

There Nathan O. Freedman, one of his lawyers, visited him yesterday. Chapman told Freedman he did not believe he would be hanged.

Chapman told Freedman the names of witnesses, which he had just remembered, who could testify in support of his story of his activities in Springfield, Mass., before he left for New York. It is said that barbers, in a shop where Chapman says he was shaved before taking the train, are now ready to identify Chapman as one of their customers on the Saturday afternoon before the killing.

From Steubenville, O., came dispatches telling of a fire that destroyed the plant of the Stanton Motor Co. William H. Snyder, owner of the company, with Miss Katherine Bourne, one of his employees, were two of the witnesses who testified in Hartford against Chapman. They told of his stealing the Lincoln car which was found months later close to the scene of the murder in New Britain.

Steubenville police believe some of Chapman's underworld associates set fire to Snyder's place for revenge. Thirty automobiles were destroyed in the fire. Total damage was estimated at $200,000.

POPULARITY OF DOLLAR BILL TAXES U. S. PRINTING PLANT

Treasury in March Was Forced to Deliver 37,824,000 Bills, Without Waiting to "Cure" Them.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—The rapidly growing popularity of the dollar bill has become a problem to Treasury officials. The Government is faced with the necessity of greatly expanding the capacity of its printing plant to meet the public demand for circulation of the unit of paper currency or inducing the public to be more economical in its use.

Just why there is such a demand for the dollar bill that its circulation has increased more than seven times since 1900 and exactly three times since 1910 is a puzzle which Assistant Secretary Dewey has started out to solve. He hopes by the study to find means of obtaining a more sparing use of it. The big plant of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, built in 1914 with the expectation that it would meet the nation's paper money production needs indefinitely, was forced in March to deliver to the United States Treasury 37,824,000 one-dollar bills to keep up with the public demand for them. To visualize the bulk of this job, the bills weighed approximately 113,472 pounds.

One of the chief difficulties is that the capacity of the plant is so pressed by the demand that the bills have to be put in circulation as "green" money, without opportunity to cure so they will stand the rough usage they get. Just now the average life of the bills being put in circulation is only about four months.

DRY AGENTS KILL ALLEGED MISSOURI MOONSHINER

Say They Found Victim Operating Still in Douglas County and He Resisted Arrest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 8.—Press Brown, 55 years old, said to have been operating a still in a ravine in Eastern Douglas County, was shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon by members of a posse directed by C. B. Shields, chief prohibition enforcement agent for Southwest Missouri, when he resisted arrest, according to the officers.

When the posse advanced and ordered Brown to surrender, he grabbed a shotgun and opened fire, the Government agents said. The still was beside a small, spring-fed stream, from which water was obtained for cooling the worm. Brown, according to officers, recently had said that raiders who attempted to arrest him might "kiss their wives" goodbye.

Rutledge Court Plan Rejected.
The Circuit Judges have rejected the plan of former Circuit Judge Charles W. Rutledge for a reform in the present system of operating the courts. After considering the suggestions made by Judge Rutledge, the Judges reached the conclusion that the plan was impracticable.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN

HAL DONAHEY.

GOVERNOR TURNS SON OVER TO AUTHORITIES

Ohio Executive's Wife and Boy Depart With Girl for Latter's Town.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Hal Donahey, 17-year-old son of Gov. Vile Donahey, and Miss Lillian Vogel, 15-year-old Zanesville girl who disappeared from her home Sunday night and who was brought to Columbus by young Donahey, today were turned over to the juvenile court officials of Muskingum County at Zanesville by Mrs. Donahey.

The girl was found shortly before noon today by Mrs. Donahey at a rooming house at 53 North Ninth street, Columbus, on information supplied her by telephone from Zanesville. She was taken to the executive mansion, where the Governor, Chief of Police French, and Mrs. Donahey interviewed her in the presence of Hal. After the interview, on advice of Chief of Police French, concurred in by the Governor and Mrs. Donahey, both the girl and the Governor's son were taken to Zanesville and turned over to the juvenile court. The girl is a ward of the court.

The Girl's Story.
According to the girl's story, she and Hal had been acquainted about 30 days. She and Hal and another boy and girl took a ride Sunday night and, returning home about 11:30 o'clock, she was afraid to enter her aunt's home, where she was staying, and that, on her own suggestion, Hal brought her to Columbus. Arriving here near midnight, she spent the rest of the night at a friend's home.

The next day, Monday, she went to the rooming house, where she had remained until Mrs. Donahey took her to the executive mansion about noon today. She said the Governor's son had been a "perfect gentleman," and that she considered that he had done her a service in bringing her to Columbus.

Judge Says There Will Be Arrests if There Is Warrant.

By the Associated Press.
ZANESVILLE, O., April 8.—Probate Judge Clarence Graham received word from Columbus this afternoon of the finding of Miss Lillian Vogel. "A thorough investigation will be made of the disappearance of Miss Vogel, who was a ward of the Muskingum County Court," Judge Graham declared. "If arrests are warranted, they will be made, no matter who is involved," he added.

COUPLE HELD AFTER FATAL BRANDING FREED BY JUSTICE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
OROVILLE, Cal., April 8.—Mrs. Anna Rhodes, self-styled "Roaring Lion of the Tribe of Judah," and Edward Rhodes, her husband, today were freed of charges of criminal assault on Herman Schalov, who died here following fire cut branding rites. The charges were dismissed by Justice of the Peace Hall on the recommendation of the Butte County jury which investigated the "purification by fire" sect and advised that its leaders should be examined as to their sanity.

The District Attorney's office stated that the Rhodes couple would be taken before a sanity commission soon.

March Building Permits Doubled Last March

Building operations in St. Louis last month practically doubled that of March, 1924. A total of 1506 permits were issued, most of which being for dwellings of a moderate price.

Builders of new homes who entrust their furniture problems to the care of a dependable specialist like Profrock-Litton Furniture Co., Fourth and St. Charles Sts., are certain of obtaining good values, quality and style.

Thursday and Friday only they are offering a two-piece Bed-Davenport Mohair-covered Suite, made in their factory, for only $174. You should inspect it. Liberal terms and convenient deliveries.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the money old mustard plaster, does the work without blistering. Just rub it on with your finger tip. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c in jars and tubes.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," had "crab" or "ringing" and "headache" or "torpid" liver—constipation, you'll find quick and pleasant relief from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at a time.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. The end 30c.

SARCOPHAGUS OF UTICA DANCING GIRL FOUND

Brazen Cymbal, Chain of Silver Bells and Rouge Discov-ered in Tomb.

By COUNT BYRON KHUN DE PROROK.

By Wireless to the Post-Dispatch. Copyright, 1925, by the New York Times.

EXCAVATION CAMP, Utica, Tunis, April 7.—As the sounding of brass and the tinkling of cymbals—those words have received new meaning from our excavations here. Before a crowd which included some of Europe's most aristocratic names, we opened another Punic sarcophagus late yesterday. Within were two brazen cymbals, a chain of silver bells and some rouge in three shades of red.

These had survived since before the Christian era. But of the girl they were fashioned to adorn, of alluring cheeks and lips, which may have changed the destinies of Utica, there was nothing but their color, which nature did not give. Of the twinkling toes which once were famous not a sign remained, save the golden treasure, which those who had seen them gave. There was not even a skeleton. There was only its outline, traced in its own dust; enough for silence to note prosaically that a certain nameless lass of Utica, who from all indications was a dancing girl, was about five feet in height.

One may safely add that she was lovely and bewitching, for the contents of the tomb of this Pheonician Salome were the richest ever found in North Africa, excluding Egypt. A hasty estimate places their value as antiques at more than 100,000 francs. There was a necklace of 150 golden stars, separated by drops of gold; a beautiful gold ring with a Greek god cut in a cameo, a chain of amulets and a Greek scarab. There were two vases of iridescent glass and two gold earrings, remarkable for the delicate sculpturing covering them, two inches in diameter, of a heavy solid gold whose use we have not yet determined—all of quality an art far superior to anything found during all the past excavations in Punic Africa.

There were still two other things, two perfume bottles—but their perfume was gone.

By chance the little dancing girl had for her "final appearance" a grandworthy assembly, including the Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna of Russia, the Duke de Clermont-Tonnerre, Marquis de Goussier, Prince and Princess Jean de Faucigny Lucinge, Baron Baronne Rodolphe Derlanger, Count Philippe de Estailleur, a member of the original Committee of Six, formed in 1920 to start excavations at Carthage; Counts Jean and Jacques Chabannes-la Palice, the present proprietors of Utica, and Mr. and Mrs. Lascelles Maxwell and their daughter, Kathryn, of New York.

HUMBOLDT CURRENT CHANGING, KILLING MILLIONS OF FISH

Noted for Its Coldness, Limer's Commander Tells of Temperature of 75 Degrees.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 8.—The Humboldt current, which shapes its course north along the west coast of South America from the Antarctic Ocean, is changing. The news was brought here yesterday by Capt. George Desteer of the Grace liner Santa Luisa, which came from Chill and Valparaiso. The current is noted for its coldness, and no rainfall is experienced ordinarily along its path, said Capt. Desteer, who observed on his recent trip that the temperature was as high as 75 degrees Fahrenheit.

"On Chinchua Island and the Guanaque group, off the coast of Peru, are the homes of millions of birds, and the sky is usually black with the spread of their wings. On the trip we saw only hundreds where there were millions," said Capt. Desteer. "In the waters about them were millions of dead fish."

In Peru, the small desert of Trujillo, Chief Officer Vincent Gerresio said, the rains were so heavy that graves were washed out and the skeletons carried along in the streams.

3 MISSING MEN ARE SOUGHT

Bert Moore, who at one time was hoisting engineer here, is being sought by policewomen on information from relatives at Iroquois Falls, Canada, who write, his mother is very low and wants to see her son before she dies.

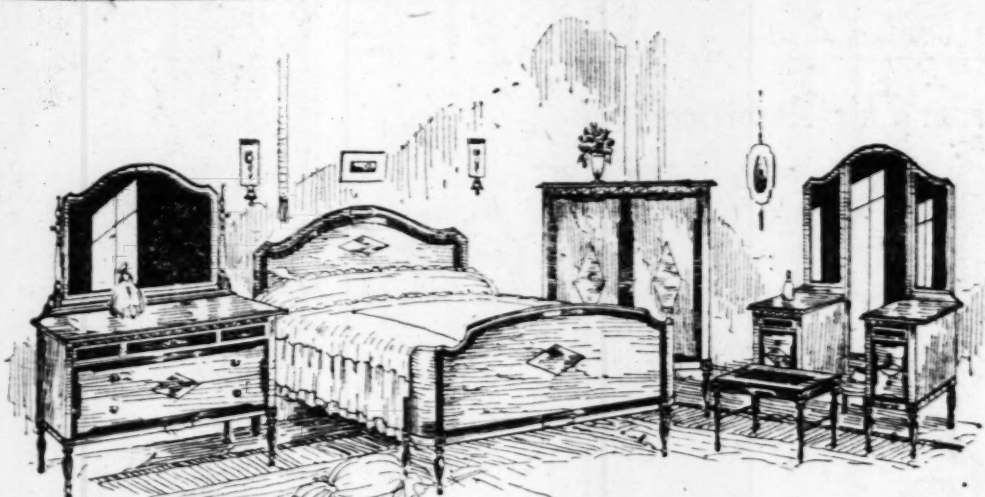

Clifton Lock Plant, son of Martha G. D. Plant of Fulton, Mo., is being sought by relatives who write his presence in Calloway County, Mo., to straighten out some title to lands in that county. Roy Enniger is being sought at the request of a half-sister, Mrs. Gladys Van Dorn of Muskegon, Mich., who says she last heard from her brother here several years ago.

Help us Celebrate OUR DIAMOND JUBILEE

Fifteen months ago we began to wonder how we could induce you to take part in our Diamond Jubilee. We wanted you to enjoy it while we were taking pride in
it. There was only one answer: Values!
So we combed the world for values. In the marts of Europe and Asia, as well as our own nation, we sought these values, and succeeded. If beautiful things delight you; if great quantities impress you; if reduced prices convince you, we know that you will help us celebrate our Diamond Jubilee This great carnival of buying opportunities begins next Monday, and will continue for three weeks.
We confidently await your judgment.

I have never before given my name to advertise a medicine, but you can not imagine how different I feel since I discovered Carter's Little Liver Pills." NEW YORK LIKELY TO GET PULITZER RACE

Contest Committee to Decide Soon on Place for Holding Next Air Classic.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 8.—The next Pulitzer trophy race, the international speed classic for airplanes, "in all probability" will be held this year on the pioneer flying fields of Long Island. This belief was expressed yesterday by Frank A. Tichernor, president of Aero Digest, and other members of a committee to present New York's case next week, when Godfrey L. Cabot, president of the National Aeronautical Association, calls a meeting of the Contest Committee in Washington to consider invitations and reach a decision.

Cabot and a majority of the members of the Contest Committee are said to favor New York's application over those of Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, New Orleans, San Francisco and Boston. The fact that more than a million spectators would be able to witness the races from Roosevelt, Mitchell, Curtiss and International Polo Fields is said to assure the event coming here.

So sure are Tichernor and his friends of landing the meet for the first week in October that they will devote most of their energy to a movement to have the Pulitzer races permanently assigned to New York. The purpose of the classic, they argue, is to promote interest in aviation and it should be regularly held closest to the capital that eventually must make commercial flying a success.

DRIVER WHO FLED AFTER INJURING BOY SOUGHT

"Now Run Along and Don't Say Anything About This," He Admonished Child.

Police are seeking the driver of an automobile who left the scene at 8:30 p. m. yesterday after injuring Orlando Wilson, 12 years old, son of Walter Wilson, 1109 Paul street, at Broadway and Chouteau avenue, as the boy was crossing the street. The auto was eastbound and after the accident the driver stopped, assisted the boy to the sidewalk and brushed off his clothes.

"Now run along home and don't say anything about this," the driver told the boy, climbed back in the machine and drove away. The boy suffered lacerations of the face and head and was treated at city hospital.

Mrs. Charles Seigle, 20, 4602 McMillan avenue, suffered a fractured skull and lacerated scalp yesterday when she was thrown into the windshield of an automobile driven by Abraham de Woskin, 4600 McMillan avenue, when it collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. James E. Hutchinson of the Buckingham Hotel, at Taylor avenue and Westminster place. She was removed to her home.

The De Woskin machine hit a fire plug on the corner, knocking it from its base and flooding the neighborhood until Water Department employees could be summoned to shut off the flow.

SKULL FRACTURED, MAN DIES; COMMON LAW WIFE IS HELD

Lester Elliot, 34, Was Found on Street Sunday With Woman Leaning Over Him.

Pending an autopsy and police investigation of the death of Lester Elliot, 34 years old, of 2714A Blair avenue, who died of skull fracture at city hospital last night, his common-law wife, Mrs. Rose Weaver, 31, is being held.

Elliot was found unconscious at Fourteenth and Farrar streets Sunday, with Mrs. Weaver leaning over him. At that time she said he had slipped her while intoxicated and that a strange man reeked him, chased him, a half block and knocked him down, causing him to strike his head on the brick pavement.

Last night she changed her story. She said she had lived with Elliot about 15 months and that both had been drinking. He was slapping her when an automobile drew up to the curb and a man stepped out. "What do you mean by hitting that woman?" the man said and knocked Elliot down with one blow, leaving her lying in the automobile. Elliot was suffering with fractures of the nose and skull and alcoholism.

TELLS OF SEEING MAX JUMP FROM BRIDGE INTO RIVER

Police are watching for the body of a man described as between 30 and 35 years old, who was said to have leaped from the west end of the Free Bridge into the Mississippi river at 8 p. m. yesterday. J. B. McKay, of 1284 Lafayette avenue reported the incident to East St. Louis police, who relayed it by telephone to St. Louis police. McKay said the man wore a brown cap, blue coat and trousers and khaki shirt. He said he saw him climb on the rail and leap over and saw the body strike the water and disappear.

Walked 500 Miles to Join Husband.
By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—After walking from Los Angeles to San Francisco, more than 500 miles, to rejoin her husband of a year, Mrs.
Mildred Gustavson, 19, was arrested here for vagrancy as she was waiting at the dock scanning every man in uniform who passed. Her husband is Clifford Gustavson, second class carpenter's mate aboard
the U. S. S. Mississippi. When the young woman told her story to Police Judge Jacks, the case was dismissed and she was commended by the court for her loyalty.

SUFFRAGE WORKER
PRAISES THE LEAGUE

Mrs. Corbet Ashby of London, in Address, Points Out Humanitarian Acts.

The League of Nations has come to stay and it is functioning every day with greater authority. Mrs. Corbet Ashby of London told a group of women yesterday morning at Graham Memorial Chapel, Washington University. Mrs. Ashby is president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance. She spoke under the auspices of the College Club and Mrs. Gellhorn presided.

Mrs. Ashby praised the "Treaty of Versailles" for its enumeration of responsibility of the stronger races for the weaker, and pointed out social and humanitarian accomplishments of the League of Nations.

Says Democracy Will Succeed. Speaking of democracy and its success, Mrs. Ashby said: "Bolshevism in the East and Fascism in Italy and Spain do not present the real danger to democracy. The danger of the individual is the great danger. Democracy, historically, is very young, and it will succeed if the individual is aware of his responsibility for the social and political life of his country."

"The English-speaking people," she continued, "have been the pioneers in parliamentary self-government, and we must discover whether this form of government is possible in international affairs. We must face the fact that a form of democratic self-government must be extended to include the nations of the world."

Traditions of Duty. "The tradition that man's first duty is to the State must be preserved," the speaker declared. "The universities must take up that problem again if we are to succeed. Men and women with minds trained to see the real root of the problems must be enlisted in their countries' service."

Mrs. Ashby spoke yesterday afternoon before the College Club. She came to America to address the American Association of University Women and the national convention of the League of Women Voters to be held this month at Richmond, Va.

MESSENGER TOOK $31,000

WORTH OF SECURITIES HOME
After Causing Flurry in Financial District.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 8.—Because he delayed delivery of $31,000 worth of securities to Post & Flag brokers, by taking them home, Lester Simon, 18, a messenger, was held last night in police headquarters on a charge of grand larceny. The affair caused a turmoil in the financial district, where for a while it was believed another bond robbery had been perpetrated.

Simon, employed by a Wall Street messenger service, at noon was assigned to collect 500 shares of Consolidated Oil, 200 shares of Hudson Motor Co. and 500 bonds of the Kingdom of Denmark from the bank of the Manhattan company, 40 Wall Street, and the New York Trust Co., 100 Broadway.

He tucked the securities in his pocket and went home. Two hours later, when he failed to return, officials of Post & Flag notified police of Old Slip Station. Detectives found Simon at home. According to the detectives Simon had been told by another messenger that they "would not be paid today" and decided to delay delivery of the securities for several hours so that the firm by which he is employed "would be fined for failure to deliver them on time."

YOUTH HELD AS SUSPECT
IN BATHING SUIT THEFT

Monday, while police were searching a house on Reilly avenue, on a tip that stolen tobacco was to be found there, they discovered 45 new bathing suits and 14 new bathing caps. The father of a youth living there told police that his son had taken them. The youth was arrested and admitted possession of the property, but insisted he had found the caps and suits in a public dump at Vermont and Alabama avenues. Police doubted his story, but he was released yesterday morning.

Yesterday afternoon Gus Sauter, proprietor of the swimming pool at Manion's Park, 8614 South Broadway, reported to police that burglars had broken into a case at the pool and had stolen caps and suits. He identified the property as his. Police then arrested the youth again, who is being held as suspected of theft.

ST. LOUIS MAIL ROBBERY LOOT
IS RECOVERED IN CALIFORNIA

Wife of Dead Gangster Reveals $1500 in Safe Deposit Box

By the Associated Press. LONG BEACH, Cal., April 8.—Police opened a safe deposit box here yesterday and obtained $1500 which they believe may be a portion of the mail robbery loot stolen in St. Louis in April, 1922.

The box was rented by Bernard Kassel, alias "Blackie" Davis, who was shot to death in a fight with police a few days ago at El Segundo, near here. The dead man's wife, Esther Davis, led the police to the cache.

Officials also obtained two other safe deposit keys at the Kassel home which they hope will open a still greater hidden store of the St. Louis plunder.

100,000 SPENT FOR RARE
BOOKS IN ENGLAND IN MONTH
New York Dealer Buys 1594 Print of Plagiarism of "Venus and Adonis."
Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, April 8.—About $500, has been spent in England for the book manuscripts in the last month. Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, New York dealer, said in an interview here. Of this amount $200,000 was paid at public sale and the remainder in private purchase.
"The book I paid the most for," Rosenbach said, "is 'Venus and Adonis' by John Donne. It was published in 1594, when Shakespeare was 28 years old. It is the first plagiarism of Shakespeare's work. 'Venus and Adonis' and
'The Rape of Lucrece' are thought to be the first of his poems. I think that, despite the fact that it was not a great success, it was not a failure. Rosenbach also bought a rare edition of 'Alice in Wonderland'
by Lewis Carroll, published in 1865 ($1000).
Rosenbach, who gave up the pursuit of the celebrated Card Chaucer at $700 sterling for yesterday's auction, is credited with an act of magnanimity by the Graphic.
The newspaper quotes him as saying: 'I saw that the Brudenell family, owners of the manuscript
I wanted, so I couldn't go anywhere else, because I am proud of Chaucer's books, than any other in the world.'
The Graphic declares that the book was not reached when the manuscript, the Canterbury 'Tale of Vellum,' was knocked down a few to the manufacturer, Hart Vellum, who promptly handed the volume over to the owner, G. L.
Rosenbach.

POLICE CAPTAIN MATHEWS IS CRITICALLY ILL IN HOSPITAL

Network Is Blamed for Collapse of Officer of Dayton Street District.

Police Capt. Wade Mathews, 55 years old, commanding Dayton Street District, is in critical condition at Mullanphy Hospital today suffering from nervous exhaustion and kidney trouble which culminated in his collapse yesterday after 12 hours of active election duty.

Capt. Mathews lives at 3802 First avenue with his wife and 11 children, some of whom are adopted. He became a policeman in 1894, and a Captain in 1911.
Overwork extended over a period of months led to his collapse. According to fellow officers his custom was to arrive at Dayton Station at 5:30 a. m. each day, remain through most of the afternoon, and return at night to tour his district.
Yesterday he started work at 5:30 a. m. and spent the day touring the polling places in his district to keep order. He returned to his office at 4:30 p. m. and was there but a few minutes when he collapsed.

Witness Sentenced for Perjury

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, O., Pa., April 8.—
A man guilty to a charge of perjury after his trial had been in progress a day, Orlando Tessa of Cincinnati, O., was sentenced to one and a half years in the East Pennsylvania Penitentiary today.
Three others entered similar pleas and their sentence was suspended. The four persons had been tried at the trial of Tony Burchan, and John Torti, convicted train robbers and slayers, that Burchan and Torti were in Ohio on the day
the train was held up here.
Tessa was a passenger shot. The witness admitted that their testimony was false and that they had been threatened with death by friends of the robbers.

Killed in Powder Explosion

HANOVER, Mass., April 8.—
A man was killed, several severely injured, and property damage estimated at more than $5,000 was caused yesterday when a spark from a new powder mixing machine, ignited hundreds of pounds of black gun powder at the National Fireworks manufactory here. A score of small bullets were used as mixing sheds were destroyed in explosions which injured the four large buildings.
The plant was saved only after valiant efforts by the fire departments of nine towns and city of Brockton. Maynard Goodwin of Hanover, an expert in explosives, was killed.

Premier Herriot arrived in the Senate unexpectedly and when Finance Committee opposed Government's proposed appropriation for secondary education scholarships he put the question of confidence, complaining that Finance Committee had shown marked hostility during the two days.

PARIS, April 8.—The parliamentary debate on Finance Minister de Monzie's measures to relieve the fiscal difficulties of France could not take place this afternoon because the Finance Committee which met at 2 p. m. had to deal with alternative plans that have been submitted to it. The Chamber of Deputies (left) fixed Friday evening for debate. Among the alternate plans is drastic out-and-out capital levy presented by the Socialists, and scheme from the radical left, and adherent supporters of the Government, but who now appear to be wavering.

The radical supporters of Government, represented by L. Malvy, are making efforts to force the Socialists to withdraw their proposal, but the Socialists are expected to go ahead—not only they believe there is any chance of the plan's adoption, but they believe their constituents that remained true to the Socialist vote. It is believed that the plan will rally to the Government plan.

This plan provides for authorization to raise the limit of the bill issue by the Bank of France a total of 45,000,000,000 francs and for a forced loan, embracing a 10 per cent contribution by capital.

Must Modify Plan.
Members of the Finance Committee declare that their disapproval, established clearly that Government bills call for considerable modification at the hands of the committee.

How the debate will end continues to be a subject of speculation in political circles. It pointed out that a part of the Government's radical supporters almost certain to vote against the plan. But as the Communists are to support the administrative capital levy being in line with their views, experienced observers expect that the Government will be sustained by a majority in the Chamber. However, there are no signs of hostility to the measure decreed by M. Millerand, president of the Finance Committee, declared in the course of yesterday's session that he could not accept a plan for a forced loan.

Minister of Finance M. de Monzie a victory in the meeting of Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, which, by a vote of 14 to 14, rejected the proposition to raise the two parts of Finance bill.

Provision of Bill.
The capital levy bill as drawn makes the tax "voluntary" and does not paying income tax for two classes of income tax.

Premier Summons Meeting

GOVERNMENT GETS MAJORITY OF TWO

This Disappears, However,

By Associated Press.
PARIS, April 8.—The Government's majority of two, recorded in a vote of confidence in the Senate today, later disappeared when two Senators declared their votes wrongly entered in the records. The vote of confidence of 142 to 140

COLUMBIA U. STUDENTS HONOR JOSEPH PULTZER

Place Wreath on Bust of Founder of School of Journalism and Hear Addresses on His Career.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 8.—The student body and the faculty of the School of Journalism of Columbia University observed the seventy-eighth anniversary of the birth of the late Joseph Pulitzer yesterday.
Led by Prof. John W. Cunliffe, dean of the school, and Clarence W. Steffler, president of the senior class, the student body placed a wreath on the Pulitzer bust in the vestibule of the building.

Pultzer was born April 10, 1847,
and died Oct. 29, 1911. The Columbia School of Journalism, which he founded, was opened in September, 1912.

Don C. Seitz of the Evening World, author of "Joseph Pulitzer,
His Life and Letters," addressed the students. He said that Pultzer's work as editor of the World.

"Most young people regard elderly persons either with scorn or indifference," he said. "That wasn't true of Joseph Pulitzer. He respected the young man who succeeded him largely through the help of being interesting to their elders. In looking over Mr.
Pultzer's career I was struck with the fact that nearly every man he associated with was his elder by 10, 15 or 20 years. Ability to take on older acquaintances and a great deal toward starting him on his great career."

"Mr. Seitz has just given you a picture of Joseph Pulitzer," said Steffler. "In his book he told of Pultzer's accomplishments in the School of Journalism. To him, above all others, must go the credit for awakening the New York press from the lethargy of post-civil war days."

"We are here to pay a tribute to the memory of the great man from whose generosity we are fortunate enough to benefit. Mr. Pulitzer's interest in young newspaper men pushed beyond those with whom he came in contact during his lifetime. It is fitting and proper that we should pay homage to his memory on the anniversary of his birth."

"This wreath is a small token of the great regard we have for him in appreciation of the vision he had and the ideals he cherished for the future of the press. At the same time it is an expression of our desires and purpose to carry out those ideals in so far as it is within our power to do so."

ASSERTS GOVERNMENT AIDED WHEAT 'BULLS'

Senator Shipstead Says Agriculture Department Circulated False Propaganda.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—A charge that the recent skyrocketing of wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade was due to the activities of price-fixing speculators is made by Senator Ship-stead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, in a letter to Julius Barnes, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The Senator also asserts that the Department of Agriculture,
"whether by good intention or otherwise," assisted in the "bull" movement by co-operating with the issue of "false propaganda" regarding a threatened shortage of world wheat supplies.

The communication, made public by the Senator today, was in reply to an article published recently by Barnes, which asserted that Senator Shipstead, in advising the farmers last fall to market their wheat crop then, made it impossible for the farmers to take advantage of the higher prices of wheat prevailing this year until the recent break in the market.

Denying that he so advised the farmers, Shipstead said he warned producers not to be "fooled by the money powers pushing up quotations for political and financial purposes." By following this warning, Senator Shipstead said,
the producers had escaped being caught in the "awful crash" in the market. To support his contention that the $2 wheat price was the work of speculators, the Minnesota Senator said the Secretary of Agriculture had attested that during February alone the Chicago Board of Trade sold wheat
"futures" amounting to 1,581,594, 600 bushels, or more than five times the world's visible supply.

Nation-Wide Radio Program Plan.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 8.—
The Los Angeles Examiner today says that William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the Examiner, Schenck, motion picture executive, have formed a partnership for the purpose of launching a nation-wide broadcasting program. Four powerful broadcasting stations, the paper says, will be erected in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and

plement enabling the four stations to blanket the United States with a tainment.

come tax on land, property, agri-

cial profits or investment dividends are compelled to subscribe

their incomes.

Such capital value will be estimated by a scale laid down in the land property and stock dividends

ENGRAVING BUREAU INVESTIGATOR FIRED

Outing Indicates That President Thinks Charges of Huge Losses Are Baseless.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—Atorney-General Sargent dropped the official case on the neck of Charles B. Brewer, Department of Justice investigator, responsible for the charges of bond duplication in the Treasury Department.

Ever since the days of the Harding administration the Treasury Department has endeavored to ouster
Brewer from the Government service, but was not successful until yesterday. Brewer had been given additional time in which to make good his charges. The action taken today indicates that they are destructive. In most cases they do
no more than give cloudy
weather and rain or snow. Even
the winds accompanying them are not necessarily strong. These cyclones, when they are small in extent, and show a great difference
in pressure between the center and
the outer rim, naturally are the severest ones, and at times produce
winds strong enough to cause considerable damage.

When the charges were first made to President Harding the immediate result was the discharge of the superintendent of the Bureau of Engraving and a number of employees. Later they were reinstated.

LEAGUE PRODS 26 NATIONS FOR VIEWS ON ARMS PARLEY

Acceptance or Rejection of Invitation to Geneva Traffic Regulated in Wireless Message.

Publishing Co., New York, World and Post-Dispatch.
GENEVA, April 8.—With replies still lacking from 26 nations invited by the League of Nations to attend the conference on arms traffic, the league yesterday sent out by wireless communications asking definite acceptance or rejection of the invitation so that preparations can be completed for the meeting May 4.

Failure of Canada, Ireland,
South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Egypt to reply, thus far,
even to the third communication from the league is causing considerable conjecture. The hostile displayed by the Latin-American bloc—Argentina, Mexico, Chile, Colombia, Peru, Bolivia, Paraguay, Uruguay, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Haiti, Santo Domingo, Ecuador and Cuba—also is causing considerable concern.

The South American republics, where revolutions are the most prevalent, together with Brazil, which has announced she will not permit Governments to dictate the amount of arms she is entitled to purchase, alone can nullify the value of the British draft treaty which the league proposes to establish as an international convention.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The American delegation to the international arms traffic conference, opening in Geneva May 4 under the auspices of the League of Nations, will include Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio and Hugh Gibson, American Minister to Switzerland.

WEATHER EXPERT EXPLAINS TORNADO ORIGIN AND FREAKS

Montrose W. Hayes, Forecaster, Addresses Junior Chamber of Commerce on Topic of Storms.

SAYS HOUSES OFTEN SEEM TO EXPLODE

Much Still Remains to Be Solved in Regard to These Disturbances, He Asserts.

Why houses in the path of a tornado seem to explode when struck and other objects perform freakish stunts: why a tornado is characterized by a whirling wind
why these destructive atmospheric disturbances cannot be predicted in time to permit the residents of affected areas to escape, were some of the questions answered by Montrose W. Hayes, weather forecaster of the United States Weather Bureau, in an address before the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night.

After pointing out that the layer of air surrounding the earth and rotating from west to east with it is believed to be 100 miles thick and in the case of rabbits, we have ground for hope that a way may ultimately be discovered to make the typhoid carrier innocuous and so it will be no longer necessary to segregate him or her as a menace to society.

Bromsulphalein New Compound.
Dr. White has made a new compound of the coal tar type that promises to be useful in measuring the activity of the liver as similar dyes have been used for some years in testing the efficiency of the kidneys. He calls this new compound
"bromsulphalein," but its constitution is too complicated to be conveyed by wire. Injected into a rabbit, it is largely eliminated in half an hour if the liver is in a normal healthy state, but if the

the howl. The same thing happens when the whirling motion begins with our local storms. The more rapid the interchange of lower and warm, and upper and cold air is,
the greater the part centrifugal force will play and quite soon we will have a whirling mass of air, with very little air in the center.
Then we have a tornado.

"Tornadoes are local. The storm's path is narrow and is not very long as a rule. The storm forms where the air is particularly warm and moist on or near the ground. Of course, after it starts, it can keep on whirling until the fuel—warm, moist air—plays out.
The rate at which the storm travels is very rapid, but the rate at which the wind is whirling around the center of the storm cannot be described by a word as mild as exploded. This terrific whirl, however, evidently does not cause all the damage. Houses explode, bark is blown from trees, corks fly out of bottles and other things happen that cannot be explained by saying the strong wind did it all.

Pressure Theory.
"We know that ordinarily the atmospheric pressure is a little less than 15 pounds to the square inch.
It is also quite evident that the pressure in the center of a tornado is much less than it is outside. Let us assume that it is half.
This gives us a difference of 7 1/2 pounds to the square inch. If we divide between the center of the storm and the region surrounding it, now
the storm moves rapidly, and just a moment before the air in houses, under the beds and in trees is pressing out at the rate, say, of 14
pounds to the square inch. There was, of course, an equal pressure
on the outside. Now, in an instant,
take away seven pounds from the
pressure on the outside, and we must have something resembling
an explosion. This theory satisfactorily explains much of the unusual damage done by tornadoes, and at the same time is in full accord with what has been said about the conditions of the storm.

Tornadoes are more frequent in the spring and early summer than in any other period of the year.
This probably is because the greatest local differences in temperature are most marked then. They cannot be forecast, because they are local in character, are caused by conditions existing in or near the localities in which they occur, and probably more important still,
because there is much we do not know about their inception. I think I have told you about them as generally—easy to observe, and are quite obvious, but why a tornado should have struck Memphis,
born and not Carbondale on March 18 is something we do not know. We know the general conditions that surround the formation of a tornado, but there is so very necessary that we do not know. Then, no technical observations have ever been made in the First Ward, Richard T.

"Let us take a very ordinary example to clarify this. You pull the stopper from a wash basin. The water begins to run out, and is a little lower in the middle than anywhere else. Take your finger and start the water to moving in a circular manner—quite rapidly. In a moment there will be a pronounced depression in the center of the bowl. If you cause the water to move very rapidly this depression may extend almost, if not altogether, to the bottom of

Scientist Says Way May Be Found to Make Typhoid Germ Innocuous

Investigators of Johns Hopkins University Have Freed Rabbits Completely From Carrier by Doses of Mercurio-Chrome.

BY DR. EDWIN E. SLOSSON,
Director, Science Service.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—Fitting molecules to ferret out microbes is the favorite indoor sport of the modern chemist. Several sessions of the American Chemical Society meeting here this week, are devoted to this pursuit, which the chemists call "chemo-therapeutic antisep-sis." It is more exciting than fox hunting because the germs multiply with incredible rapidity and cunningly conceal themselves in the covers of the body cells and tissues and even in the very marrow of the bones from which it is difficult to dislodge them without damage to their involuntary host.
For instance, a patient may recover from typhoid and be able again to go about his business because he has mastered the microbes in his blood. Yet the pernicious germs may have found permanent lodgment in the gall bladder from which they escape and spread the disease wherever he goes.

Dr. E. C. White of Johns Hopkins University mentioned yesterday that two investigators of that institution, J. H. Hill and W. W.
Scott, had found that rabbits could be completely freed from typhoid germs by doses of mercurio-chrome.
Injected into the veins or even taken by means of the mouth.
Since it has thus been found possible by this means to make the typhoid germ innocuous, it is neutralized by equal pressure from within any object, Hayes spoke as follows:

"In the sea of air surrounding the earth a storm is a sea of air that is light. That is, in the storm area the air does not weigh as much as it does in surrounding regions.

"The large, general storms of the United States, and of the entire world, for that matter, are cyclones. Now do not confuse the cyclone with the tornado; they are quite different.

"They are more or less circular in shape, and usually are several hundred miles in diameter. The air does not move in the counterclockwise, and at the same time it is rising. They move in a generally easterly direction. Almost every weather map shows one or more of these cyclones in the United States. We call them storms, but this does not mean that they are destructive. In most cases they do
no more than give cloudy
weather and rain or snow. Even
the winds accompanying them are
not necessarily strong. These cyclones, when they are small in extent, and show a great difference
in pressure between the center and
the outer rim, naturally are the se-
verest ones, and at times produce
winds strong enough to cause considerable damage.

Nature of Tornado.
"They are not, however, tornadoes, even when they are small, for the tornado is purely a local storm of much more destructive force than the cyclone. There are several things that keep a cyclone alive. After the storm is born, its life depends largely upon a supply of comparatively warm and moist air. The warm, moist air is drawn into the front of the storm, expands on account of the lower pressure in the storm and rises on account of its expansion.
As the air expands the process of expansion causes it to grow cooler.
The cooling causes a condensation of the moisture in the air, and this condensation causes a liberation of latent heat, which, in turn,
causes a further rise of the air,
and there is another cycle of the same thing. The whirling is due to the motion of the earth.

"To visualize the tornado we must be in a cyclonic area, for it never occurs outside the country encompassed by a cyclone, and almost invariably it forms to the southeast of the center of a cyclone. Given the cyclone, we have in the southeastern part of it a bountiful supply of warm, moist air. The warmth, at some particular spot, causes the air to expand and rise,
and under the hot sun the air is
pressing out at the rate, say, of 14
pounds to the square inch. There
was, of course, an equal pressure
on the outside. Now, in an instant,
take away seven pounds from the
pressure on the outside, and we

torily explains much of the unusual

VON HINDENBURG IN GERMAN RACE FOR PRESIDENCY

Field Marshal, Despite His Advanced Age, Yields to Urgings of Nationalist Leaders.

CONSERVATIVE BLOC TO SUPPORT HIM

Friends Cite Bismarck, Balfour and Clemenceau as Examples of Old Men in Politics.

By Associated Press.
BERLIN, April 8.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg was nominated today as a candidate for president of the German Republic
by the National-Conservative-Bourgeois bloc. It was announced that the Field Marshal had agreed to stand for the office.

Von Hindenburg's nomination was forecast several hours before he actually accepted as it was known this morning that he had agreed to run against former Chancellor Wilhelm Marx in the elections of April 26 if assured of the united support of all the parties comprising the national bourgeois bloc.

Despite the opposition of Foreign Minister Stresemann, it was stated that the German People's party would not oppose the Field Marshal if he were nominated.

Von Hindenburg's protests against entering the race on account of his age were met by supporters who cited the examples of men on the verge of 80 who had made good as statesmen. They pointed out that Bismarck, when he retired, was considerably older than the Field Marshal. The case of Clemenceau and Balfour were also cited.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of the people, never being to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

At Lindell-Eucled.

The automatic traffic signal, recently installed at Euclid and Lindell where it was badly needed, is being disregarded. On Monday night I saw a man narrowly escape serious, probably fatal injury, through the wanton stupidity of a motorist driving east on Lindell, who, noosed his car almost up to the street car tracks, thus compelling pedestrians to swing out into the right-of-way of the north-south traffic. The pedestrian in question was about halfway across Lindell when the traffic change signal was flashed and directly in the path of a second car whose inconsiderate driver, refusing to wait a few seconds, forced the pedestrian to scramble back as best he could.

Other instances where this signal has been ignored have come under my observation. On Monday night two cars coming south on Euclid, turned west on Lindell in violation of the stop sign, halting east-west traffic. And on Sunday afternoon an automobile swept west on Lindell in flagrant violation of the signal.

Some of the drivers, obviously, are not familiar with the requirements of our automatic signals, and in their ignorance, are jeopardizing life. In some of the instances I have cited the driver, manifestly, ignored the signal deliberately.

Motorists of this ilk are, of course, a negligible minority. Yet they are the people who cause accidents and continue to aggravate our traffic problem. What to do with them is indeed a question. It is not practicable to station officers at our automatic signal corners to see that the signals are observed. And it is almost impossible for the pedestrian to get the numbers of the offending cars. Cannot law-abiding motorists help by reporting such offenders? Such "switching" may be distasteful, but unless the law-abiding motorists assist actively in suppressing these law-breaking drivers who are morally incompetent to own and drive cars, the death toll of the streets will continue.

STILL ALIVE.

Litter in the Streets.

As long as this is a manufacturing center, with coal as the principal source of energy, there is bound to be some dirt. This, however, does not give valid reason for the scattering about of newspapers, chewing gum wrappers, circulars, letters, garbage tin cans, automobile licenses, fenders, etc., carelessly and inconsiderately strewn about the streets of our city. There is hardly more reason for the piles of straw, old grass, weeds, rags and a motley of other forms of dirt seen accumulated in the gutters of our boulevards.

Germany has rigid laws governing the throwing of paper, however small, on its public places. New Yorkers are held strictly to account for disposing of unwanted objects on Riverside drive. St. Louisans are free to dump their trash wherever and whenever they please.

A CITY ORDINANCE. Sec. 1242, Revised Code, prohibits the nuisance complained of. Like the sidewalk snow-removal ordinance, however, it is not well enforced. Editor, Post-Dispatch.)

A Correction.

An article appeared recently in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, headed "The Municipal Opera Chorus," which should be the Municipal Chorus Club, consisting of 55 singers, members of the Municipal Opera, under the direction of Minna C. Moorehead. Would appreciate a correction of this matter.

Racing Past Street Cars.

Monday afternoon, as I was riding in a street car west on Delmar, the car slowed up to permit passengers to get off. As it came to a stop one automobile dashed by. The following it also tried to get past before the conductor could open the car doors. The result was that this motorist's machine stopped right in front of the open doors of the street car and had to be backed before any of the passengers could alight.

In my opinion this is a result of the amendment to the traffic law, which permits drivers of automobiles to pass street cars, although they are stopping for passengers or passengers are alighting, so long as a space of 10 feet is between the moving automobile and the slowing or stopping street car. The automobile driver forgets all about this 10-foot proviso and simply thinks he has a right to go ahead. If he does, it is because he is conscientious and does not want to hurt anybody. If he is reckless, he races past. I hold that every automobile should be compelled to stop while passengers get on or off cars. The time of automobile drivers is surely not more valuable than the lives of street car passengers.

CITIZEN.

MILLER'S SCRATCH ELECTION.

Victor J. Miller has been elected Mayor by the narrow margin of 3196 votes. His total was 120,417 to Igoe's 117,221. Miller ran far behind the leading candidate on the Republican ticket, Louis Nolte, who was re-elected Comptroller. Nolte defeated his Democratic opponent, Eugene J. Sartorius, by 53,200. Nolte polled a total of 144,258 votes, or 23,840 more than Miller.

The significance of those figures, it is hoped, will not be lost on Mr. Miller. His victory cannot be attributed to his personal strength, or to his platform. It is due to the Republican party's preponderance in St. Louis. Apparently a Republican nomination in St. Louis is equivalent to election.

Republicans who were opposed to Miller, but who supported him on the ground of party regularity, and women who accepted his pledges of law enforcement and good government, elected him by a scratch.

His pledges stand. The Post-Dispatch will be delighted if he carries out his platform and his promises. We shall be the first to recognize and approve good appointments and good policy on the part of Miller as Mayor. Seeking solely the welfare of St. Louis and her citizens, we hope for the best.

A PROBLEM IN BANKRUPTCY.

What happens, in some cases, to the assets of bankrupt firms is strikingly illustrated in the case of the BlueBird Manufacturing Co., in which Judge Hall recently allowed claims for legal fees incidental to liquidation. His decision gave attorneys and receivers in the case 65 per cent of the live assets of the company, while the creditors will receive only 35 per cent.

The receivers and attorneys probably earned their fees, but when their allowed claims take $36,250 of the company's $73,340, leaving the balance for creditors with claims totaling approximately $1,000,000, there seems to be considerable room for improvement in the manner of liquidating assets of bankrupt companies.

In this case the company was supposed to have a million dollars in assets which it did not have, and to settle its affairs it took four receivers, two receivers' attorneys, an attorney and a law firm to represent the company, a patent attorney, a receiver for a subsidiary company and two attorneys for him.

The result is the creditors of the company will get about 2 1/2 cents on the dollar and the stockholders, who held about $700,000 of the company's assets, will get nothing.

"THE WORLD" IS PUNISHED.

For its evil, brazen, unholily conduct the New York World has been punished. Henceforth, it may not pass the borders of Hungary to poison the minds of the innocent inhabitants. Such is the solemn ukase of the Horthy Government. And the specific reason therefor is the World's championship of Count Michael Karolyi, who is regarded in the official circles of Budapest as something between an arch-enemy and a triple-headed dragon.

Verily, the Horthy Government and our own State Department are working hand in hand. Karolyi is ragged in the United States. The World is ragged in Hungary. It is a charming example of international co-operation.

USE OF THE SUMMONS.

In his address on the possibility of improvement of criminal justice, at the St. Louis University Law School, Professor Charles Kellogg Burdick made the valuable suggestion that "a liberal use of the summons would relieve the pressure upon our police forces and would help to obviate the evil of the criminal bail bond. It would also prevent congestion in our jails by making each summons returnable at a time when the hearing could be had promptly."

Professor Burdick pointed out that arrest is for the purpose of preventing the escape of the accused. But its use is unnecessary "when the accused has an established place in the community, except in cases of the more serious felonies." He holds that the use of the summons in place of arrest is especially desirable "with regard to our multitudinous police regulations."

The summons is an order to appear in court to answer to a charge. It is usually the first step in a personal action, and has been very little used in criminal cases initiated by the public authorities. Its use in place of arrest in minor traffic violations has been recognized as an obvious improvement.

How far the summons could safely be substituted for arrest in cases of flagrant law violation is a matter to be considered very carefully, both for the purpose of avoiding even the appearance of favoritism and the danger of making it easier for law breakers to escape just penalties. It is evident that this is a subject for judicious regulation by a comprehensive statute.

WITHOUT OFFICIAL SANCTION.

So many Governors keep their secretaries busy writing proclamations for various occasions and causes that Gov. Paulen of Kansas is a refreshing relief. In about three months in office he hasn't proclaimed a Prize Week, a Sassafras Sunday or a heavenly champion. He hasn't proclaimed at all, and says he doesn't intend to, save for the customary suggestion of Thanksgiving, which people would celebrate anyhow, being fond of football and eating too much.

Doubtless Kansas still will have plenty of meddlers with messages, whose life work is to bother busy people and solicit contributions for high purposes and the salaries of the promoters of the noble work. But those good gentlemen will have to carry on without the indorsement and assistance of gubernatorial authority, and that should make some difference. The citizens will feel that he can attend to his own affairs without being derelict in his duty to the State, and press agents abroad in the land will lose something of the confidence and prestige that comes from official approval.

This example of restraint and common sense is to be commended to Governors and Mayors everywhere. Any worthy private charity or philanthropy should stand on its merits, and not camouflage beneath a cloak of quasi-official appeal. The readiness of high officials to extend the power of their positions to everyone with a plausible tale and a scheme for touching the taxpayer in the name of great good, has resulted in a multiplicity of such enterprises, many of them worthless or worse, that have become a nuisance, against which the people ultimately will rebel. The emergency of war taught the people the possibilities of "drives" of one kind and another but many of the promoters of such campaigns learned the same possibilities so well they have been unwilling to do anything else since, and Barnum was so near right that theirs is a profitable profession. That is no reason, however, why the Government should encourage them.

A FALSE PHILOSOPHY.

On Saturday night a young man, in a fit of drunken jealousy, fatally stabbed the girl he was engaged to marry. The tragedy has inspired the following letter to the editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"The exercise of the 'personal liberty' that makes a young man kill his sweetheart—one life destroyed and another worse than destroyed—must be gratifying to you. You are in part responsible for this tragedy. Would to God that you might see the faces of these young people in every glass you lift to your lips for the rest of your life.

(Signed) A LOOKER-ON.

This letter is an emotional outburst. The writer, however, for all his indignation, is cautious enough to conceal his identity. He passes severe judgment and offers gratuitous insult, but he does it anonymously. We have no respect for righteousness tainted by such cowardice.

It is with the writer's faulty reasoning, however, that we are concerned. He defines as "the exercise of personal liberty" the miserable conduct of this young man which, without the tragic ending, was revoltingly indefensible. Personal liberty carries no right to offend against good manners, to say nothing of the laws of God or man. Personal liberty carries no right of excessive indulgence. Personal liberty touches no man the privilege of making a brazen beast of himself.

The slaying of this young girl is a shocking crime but homes have often been embittered by such poignant tragedies and doubtless will be in the future. There are those who think that such dreadful crimes can be abolished by repressive laws. The Post-Dispatch does not share that view. If law could abolish crime, crime would have been abolished long ago. Law has its limitations. It cannot change weakness into strength. It cannot transform the mean and cowardly into the generous and brave. It cannot magically endow people with virtue. The law, as an influential factor in outlook and deportment cannot take the place of training, heredity and individual will.

Men and women do not achieve command of themselves by law. Character is the product of long vigils and rigorous, sustained effort. In its true building there must be personal choice. Moral strength, like physical strength, does not come from sheltered immunity.

No individual has ever marched to self-mastery on the crutches of paternal or sumptuary laws. We know that the notion prevails in the United States today as to the omnipotence of law. Perhaps a majority holds it. In our opinion it is a weak, false and destructive philosophy, derided and disproved by a dreadful array of facts.

Prohibition is here, with lawlessness on one arm and licentiousness on the other, and, in this 'fearful failure,' as the Detroit Free Press has truly said, 'our youth is being ruined.'

A WEEK AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

That engaging news magazine, Time, prints a complete summary of Mr. Coolidge's week, which illustrates why Washington correspondents and editorial writers the country over are desperate for writable material.

These are the items in Time's summary:

1. A letter about May Day.
2. An injury to the Coolidge cat. A skin infection of the Coolidge dog.
3. A recess appointment of Thomas Woodlock to the Interstate Commerce Commission.
4. The appointment of a commission to study the Muscle Shoals question.
5. A conference with Mr. Longworth, the results of which were not disclosed.
6. A trip on the Mayflower.
7. The receipt of the resignations of two United States Ministers.

Truly, the White House is a huge cupboard so far as news is concerned. On only one of these items is Mr. Coolidge quoted directly, and that is his May Day letter. Theodore Roosevelt might have made a good story out of the cat and dog item. Mr. Coolidge is silent. Mr. Wilson might have made public what he said to Mr. Longworth. Mr. Coolidge is silent. When a week's events at the White House, heretofore a most prolific source of news, can be compressed into seven short paragraphs, it is a sad and sterile day for the scribes.

Convict No. 23,118, otherwise known as Old Doc Cook, says that "sewing is fascinating." Wonder what he thinks about reaping.

150 YEARS SINCE LEXINGTON.

On the nineteenth of this month occurs the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Lexington, which opened the American war for independence from the mother country. The Sons of the American Revolution are promoting the observance of the day, which falls on Sunday, in the churches. The public schools are asked to celebrate on Monday, the twentieth.

The day will have a sentimental significance to all whose first political allegiance is to America. It is always helpful, moreover, for a country which values its institutions to review its origins and re-examine its fundamentals.

Those "embattled farmers" had no inkling of the civilization with its good and evil which was so soon to follow their successful revolt against oppression. They are pictured in the memory as fighting only the tyranny of the government of George III. But doubtless the tyrannies which were to come after would have been as abhorrent to their love of liberty. The King's taxes, after all, were quite trifling as compared to the tribute exacted today by a government topheavy with bureaucracy, ineffective against monopoly and subservient to predatory lobbies.

Memorial exercises are appropriate to the coming anniversary, but the highest tribute we can pay the fathers of the Revolution is to fight cancerous governmental growth with the courage and the spirit of self-dedication which was theirs.

In the absence of official advice that "this means you" the Japanese, of course, are in complete perplexity as to the meaning of the six months of war play by our navy off the California coast.

BALLAD OF VAIN AMBITIONS.

I read the ad which bid me buy
A course in this, or maybe that;
The ad all claim that if I try
The envelope will soon get fat.
I've taken courses till I'm broke;
My head with business lore I cram;
The midnight oil goes up in smoke,
But no one seems to give a damn.

"Have you read, Balzac?" one ad said,
Which showed some people dining out;
The face of one had turned quite red,
He had to say he was a lout.
I did not wish to meet his fate,
My lack of lore I could not shame;
I'm reading Balzac as they state,
But no one seems to give a damn.

The voice of Melba can be yours,
Or maybe it was Jenny Lind;
Our perfect course results insure,
Your throat means more than breathing wind.

I took the course, I longed to sing,
To coax notes from my diaphragm;
My voice now makes the welkin ring,
But no one seems to give a damn.

The girls admire the strong physique;
At least one ad I read said that;
They have no use for one who's weak,
Or one who shows a trace of fat;
My muscles now were made of steel,
My fist is like a junior ham;
Brute strength in all my limbs I feel,
But no one seems to give a damn.

I do as all successes should,
But no one seems to give a damn.

The local credit men think we are too much disposed to rest upon the esteem of family and friends and overlook the greater importance of earning the esteem of credit men. They point out that what credit men think of us, rather than what is thought of us by a smaller and more intimate circle, does establish our standing in the community. We would hesitate to say that this is not as true as it may seem to be, for one must pick one's way carefully through a material time in which not much of anything is thought of immaterials. We made some days ago the point that one hearing a robin at daybreak would hardly say so at a meeting of bank directors, just as it would not be thought helpful to any of us to be known to have been at a Hamilton avenue where the crowd kicked the floor from under the building during a Democratic meeting, and I wish to make a suggestion. It is that we have more enterprising appeal to our heads and less of the sort that appeals to our feet. After all, cheering and stamping are from dissimilar causes, and we ought to find out what the causes are.

NEW BARGE SERVICE RECORD.

From the New Orleans Times-Picayune.
MORE than two and a quarter million bushels of grain were barged to New Orleans via the Mississippi River during February of this year—a 50 per cent increase over the same month last year. Establishing a new monthly record during February of this year—a 50 per cent increase over the same month last year—the Mississippi River barges carried more than 19,000 tons. These are but the latest of the series of "new highs" established by the river transport system, which is now winning recognition even in quarters where the effort to revive river service were long opposed and belittled. Since the beginning of the present barge line expansion, it has effected rate reductions to shippers totaling more than $1,000,000, according to an official estimate, has worked under the handicap of channel obstructions in some seasons and latterly under the handicap of insufficient equipment. Of the record grain movement handled by the barges of river companies, the Gotha barges, originally leased to the Government for operation on the upper river, participated, and a coal company transferred five of its barges temporarily to the grain service. With the showing of actual accomplishment under difficult conditions, the barge service is now published estimates nearly $2,000,000 yearly—it is not surprising to find some of them who said "it couldn't be done" admitting, albeit reluctantly and grudgingly, that it was done.

AMERICAN ARTISTS.

From the Boston Globe.
ARTISTS are supposed to have no market sense. From ancient times they have been dependent on the patronage of such well-to-do folk as happened to be pleased, and usually the artist has been in the way of becoming painfully familiar with starvation before finding a regular market. A group of Americans of highly developed commercial sense have at last upon a plan by which their artistic fellow-countrymen may have a fair chance of disposing of their work without being obliged to dicker with middlemen. Two years ago a co-operative enterprise was begun in the Grand Central Galleries, New York. It is a perpetual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture organized on a non-profit-making basis. More than 100 able American artists have sent work to this exhibition and the sales for the past two years have assured success. The association has also organized traveling exhibition with satisfactory results which indicate that the most individualistic producing class in the world is not so lacking in business sense as it is supposed to be. The association is now planning to open a new gallery in New York City, which it will operate on a co-operative basis. The new gallery is to be a place where artists can sell their work without the usual drawbacks of the art market. It is to be a place where artists can sell their work without the usual drawbacks of the art market. It is to be a place where artists can sell their work without the usual drawbacks of the art market.

Polar Expert Says There Is Little Doubt Airplane Expedition Will Reach Pole.

By Radio to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Chicago, April 8.—The Polar expert, Major Isachsen, says there is no doubt that Ronald Amundsen will reach the North Pole if nothing unforeseen occurs, but landing will be the great danger.

Amundsen has decided to land at the pole but it is impossible for the aviators to determine in advance the stability of the ice. The ice may be hard at one point and a short distance away only slush, into which the machines may sink. It is impossible for the aviators to judge this even if they fly low.

REVIVAL OF COURAGE IS NEEDED OF DAY, SAYS BISHOP HUGHES

Tells Orpheum Audience Courage Is Not Absence of Fear, But Conquest of Fear.

A revival of courage to stand up for religious convictions was stressed as one of the country's greatest needs by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of Chicago at the noonday Lenten service of the Church Federation at the Orpheum Theater yesterday.

Bishop Hughes declared that courage is not the absence of fear, but the conquest of fear, the spirit exercising its control over the body. He asserted, in proving his original point, that many young men who faced dangers without a qualm overseas, had given up their religion since returning home. A baptism of courage along religious lines is needed by the young people, he said.

Prof. J. T. Mueller of Concordia Seminary, speaking at the Lutheran noonday service at the American Theater, emphasized the necessity of godliness. The speaker maintained that sooner or later everyone will be sorry not only for the evil he has done but also for the good he has neglected to do. He referred to Charles Darwin and Voltaire, who on their deathbeds he said, expressed regret for the loss of their faith.

STEEL TRADE SLUMP DURING LAST 30 DAYS

E. H. Gary Says, However, That Business Has Improved Since April 1.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Elliott H. Gary, chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, said yesterday that there had been a considerable recession in the steel business during the last 30 days, but that some improvement in business had been noted since the first of April.

Bookings of the corporation's subsidiaries, he announced, have reached about three-fifths of producing capacity, with shipments running at rate of 50,000 tons a day.

"Fundamental conditions, Gary asserted, were the best they had ever been in the history of the country, and offered promises of good business over the next few months. If the steel industry is any barometer of trade, he added, this country has a good business future which cannot be impaired by political or Congressional agitation.

In explaining the reasons for the recent reaction in trade, which was most pronounced during March, Gary said the progression in business activities which followed the election was somewhat impulsive.

"Consequently," he stated, "in some lines the speed was too rapid. Some of us uttered words of caution during the late fall and early winter against inflation, with the statement that it might result in a sudden and unreasonable check. I think that has happened. I think also that the present depression, although not great, is more than it need to have been if we consider fundamental conditions of the country."

"It takes more than a little depression," he said, "to induce us to lower wages."

ELECTION RETURNS FROM TOWNS IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY

At Richmond Heights, a single circular letter setting forth her reasons for wishing to be elected brought victory to Mrs. Mary Hoffman of Richmond Heights in yesterday's election when she was chosen Alderman of the Second Ward. Her vote was 57, as compared to 29 votes for her opponent, Warren Schmidt.

Mrs. Hoffman, a widow, made no effort to conduct a political campaign, but put her trust in her record and her ability to tell it in writing. She is the first woman Alderman to be elected in a St. Louis County municipality.

In the First Ward, Richard T. Krohr was elected without opposition. He received 72 votes. Charles H. Du Bois was elected Alderman in the Third Ward with 56 votes, as against 25 votes for his opponent, Oscar W. Anderson. In the Fourth Ward, John Angthius was unopposed and was elected with 18 votes. Richard Suecks, with 54 votes, was elected in the Fifth Ward over Roy E. Powers, who polled 50 votes. C. M. Corbett was unopposed in the Sixth Ward and received 103 votes.

Mrs. Hoffman has few illusions about public service and says she is ready for lots of work. She will work especially for harmony in the city government and the general betterment of the municipality, she said.

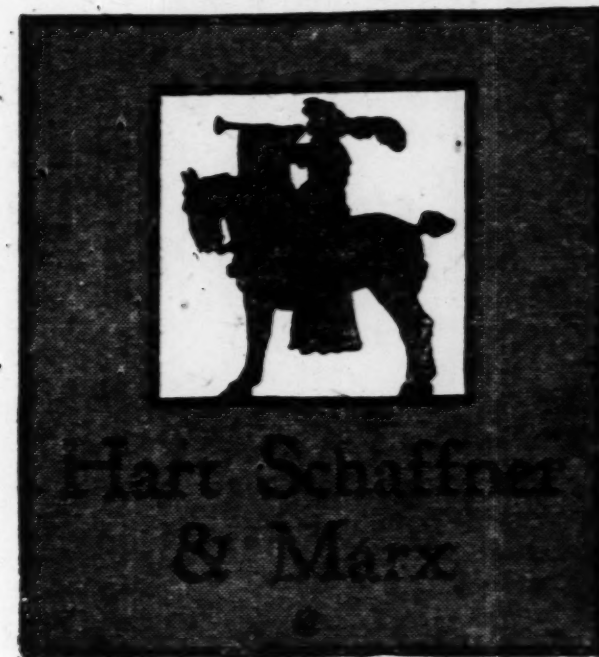

Lackland Re-Elected Mayor of St. Charles Over Two Opponents. Joseph C. Lackland was re-elected Mayor of St. Charles, Mo., by a plurality of 183 over his opponents, Frank H. May and Harry L. Chrysler, in the city election here yesterday. The vote was: Lackland, 1030; May, 841; Chrysler, 229.

J. George Detert, William Moellering, Herman Zumbuhl and F. H. Wessler were elected Councilmen. Henry J. Linnebur was re-elected City Marshal by a majority of 506 over Edward Duckworth. This is his sixteenth consecutive two-year term.

William Gray was elected City Assessor, August Regot, Police Judge, William Achelpohl, City Attorney and Lyman L. Palmer, City Collector.

In the race for three-year terms as members of the Board of Education Charles H. Mudd and Dr. T. H. Hardein were elected. A proposition authorizing an excess tax levy for school purposes of 27 cents on the $100, carried by one vote.

Republican Landslide at Peoria. PEORIA, Ill., April 3.—In a landslide, Louis Mueller, Republican candidate for Mayor, defeated his Democratic opponent, Henry Mansfield, by approximately 3000 votes in yesterday's election.

How the bean became a gentleman

For years the humble bean held but a lowly place in public estimation, until the tomato took him up.

But had it not been for that finest of all tomato catsups—Snider's—the climb could not have been so swift and sure.

For if ever a sauce was mated by nature to a vegetable, that union is found in Snider's Tomato Catsup and baked beans.

You can't realize the superiority of that time-honored Snider recipe until you've tasted a dish savored by its magic touch.

ADVOCATES FEWER LAWS AS WAY TO HELP INDUSTRY

"RESTRICTIONS HIT TRADE PROGRESS"

Merle Thorpe Says Public Is Apt to Regard Congress as Made Up of Super-Men.

The formation of a public opinion for fewer laws to combat the exponents of the popular expression, "There ought to be a law," as a means of improving business, is recommended by Merle Thorpe, editor of The Nation's Business, publication of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Thorpe addressed the Advertising Club of St. Louis yesterday noon at the City Club. He pointed out that there are now 2,000,000 laws in effect.

Dwelling upon the fallacy of the belief that members of Congress are wizards and the utility of trying to remedy and regulate business by legislation, Thorpe declared that representatives of the people are not familiar with the intricacies and complexities of business. Regulation by law restricts, limits and binds business and industrial action, he said.

Interrelation of Business.
"Ninety per cent of the courts' time is devoted to finding out what the laws mean and 10 per cent is left for determining whether they have been violated."

"We are apt to regard Washington as made up of super-men with the power to perform any economic miracle by passing a law, when, as a matter of fact, these men represent a good cross-section of American citizenry—representative government, we call it. In one and the same petition we ask Congress to lower freight rates and raise wages of railroad workers."

Thorpe related an incident brought about by the recent conference of lumber men in Washington called by Secretary Hoover, to standardize board measure, to illustrate his point that few realize the interrelation of business. After much bickering and argument, over a difference of one thirty-second of an inch, a compromise was effected through the adoption of an extra-standard board, one with the thirty-second of an inch and one without.

Small Things Important.
"A Congressman said to me, 'There's a typical example. Business is stubborn, selfish and stupid. Fighting over a thirty-second of an inch. That is why Congress makes so many laws regulating business.'"

"It does seem a small thing," I replied, "yet that thirty-second of an inch involves the scrapping of millions of dollars worth of machinery, the destruction of hard-won foreign markets, a realignment of thousands of freight tariffs, and a revision of building codes in 20-odd states."

"Hold on," said the Congressman, "I didn't realize."

"It is easy to say, 'There ought to be a law', but business, now so complex, cannot be treated so simply."

Trade Balance Restored.
"A shipment of pianos was tied up in a South American port because the purchasers could not pay for them. A man in Omaha invented an ice cream confection with a chocolate coating. It swept the country necessitating more cacao from Ecuador. The trade balance was restored, and credit was re-established in New York. The Ecuadorians got their pianos; our manufacturers got their money and piano workers got their wages—all because of an idea which the man in Omaha had."

Thorpe was the first to introduce journalism into the curriculum of a college, when, in 1907, he formed classes at the University of Washington. He later established journalism courses at the University of Kansas and the University of California. In eight years, he has increased the circulation from 1000 to 170,000. He was introduced by C. E. Williams, who presided.

into the burning building. He was found by firemen, who believed he had suffocated after losing consciousness in a fall.

WARRANT OUT FOR ALLEGED SLAYER AT 'HOME BREW' PARTY

Jesse J. Cochran, 31, of East St. Louis, is sought for killing of Louis Pelsky.

A warrant was issued today charging Jesse J. Cochran, 31 years old, of 310 North Forty-second street, East St. Louis, with the murder of Louis Pelsky of 8039 Lake drive, outside of East St. Louis, who was shot and fatally wounded last Sunday night while entertaining a "home-brew" party at his residence.

Cochran, a marine engineer, was identified by Frank Brutsch, a guest at the party, as Pelsky's assailant. He has not yet been arrested. According to witnesses of the inquest held yesterday, at which an open verdict was returned, Pelsky had asked the man later identified as Cochran to take Clement Reeves, chief of the Park Board Police, along a guest, into town with him in his automobile. Cochran refused, and after an argument shot Pelsky in the abdomen. He then snatched Reeves' revolver, which Pelsky had just taken from a cupboard, and fled from the house.

WOMAN IS SHOCKED AND BURNED BY ELECTRIC WIRE

Mrs. Sylvia Graef Comes in Contact With Dangling Wire in Street.

Mrs. Sylvia Graef, 26 years old of 2338 South Twelfth street, was shocked and burned at 8:40 p. m. yesterday when she walked into a live wire hanging from a pole at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Lind streets. Her cheek was burned and her arm was cut when the shock knocked her to the ground.

The wire was hanging from a pole and tied to a tree at a distance of only three feet from the ground. The City Lighting Department was summoned after the accident and removed the wire which is believed to have been an old Kinloch Co. wire which had accidentally become charged through contact with a live wire.

BACK TO ENGLAND FOR 'EMIR'

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Emir of Kurdistan is a man with-out a country, since a special immigration board of inquiry at Ellis Island decided yesterday that the self-styled "Emir" whose name is Prince Mohammed Said Zerdeshi, must be deported to England on the eastbound steamer of the White Star Line. Mohammed Said got back here a few days ago after Ellis Island officials had deported him on the steamship Celtic on March 14. The British authorities refused to grant him entrance at the port of Southampton and started the transatlantic game of shuttlecock with him.

The "Emir" says he isn't leath to leave; he wants to get back to Kurdistan to lead his armies now in the field. He said he came here in July to interest American capital in oil and minerals, and was deported because a passport would not recognize a passport. Immigration officials say that the "royal visitor" had a police record in the United States, France and England.

Could Not Sleep On Left Side

Gas on Stomach Prevents Sleep

"Before I began taking Adlerika I could not sleep well, especially on my left side, and had pains all through my stomach (gas). Thanks to Adlerika, I am now free again." (Signed) Samuel Parke.

Intestinal Evacuant
There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and to cause expulsion of flatus (GAS). This preparation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of clearing the system of matter which has been unable to dislodge. It is often accompanied by the great amount of water Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal, thereby bringing out unexpected quantities of material. Many times it is especially valuable when PROMPT action is necessary or to encourage the "rummy" condition of the bowels through the bowels.

In slight disorders such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when due to bowel inaction), a single spoonful of Adlerika often produces surprising and gratifying results. In cases of obstinate constipation or stomach trouble, if Adlerika does not bring relief in 24 to 36 hours the advice of a regular physician should be secured.

Reports from Physicians
"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langdon.
"Adlerika is the best in my entire 32 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. E. G.
"I prescribed Adlerika with highly satisfactory results. I signed Dr. A. C. C. (Name given on request)."
"I can't get along without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. W. H. Bernhart.
"I E. Pickett is one of Adlerika's factory men and says Adlerika feels better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the impurities eliminated from my system."
Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading drug stores everywhere.

BOAZ URGES DEVELOPMENT OF COMMERCE WITH COLOMBIA

U. S. Agent to South American Country, Addresses World Trade Club of St. Louis.

Development of trade with Colombia, South America, was urged by William Boaz, commercial attaché of the United States to that country, in an address yesterday before the World Trade Club at the Chamber of Commerce. Boaz stopped off in St. Louis returning to his South American post.

Ninety per cent of the world's emeralds and more than half of the world's platinum is mined in Colombia, and that country, next to Brazil, is the chief coffee growing country of the world, Boaz said.

The development of a railroad system in Colombia offers America a good market for railroad and general construction materials, he said. The sum of $5,000,000 a year for five years to be paid Colombia by the United States will be used entirely in railroad expansion, he said.

Miner Orders Aid to Safety, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

MAHANAO CITY, Pa., April 8.—His feet pinioned by a fall of rock, which held him helpless while a slowly moving mass of coal and dirt gradually engulfed him, Thomas Kean, a miner, calmly ordered his helper to safety and met death unflinchingly in a coal mine here yesterday. Kean sought to release a mass of coal and rock that had lodged in a chute far underground. Before he could spring to safety a slide pinioned his feet. Lawrence Coulson, headless of danger, went to the rescue, but Kean told him his efforts would be needless. "My time is up," cried Kean. "Get out. You can't save me!" Coulson crawled to safety and watched the earth pile up until it covered his friend.

In return the street car company agreed to remove a large pedestal from the center of North Ninth street.

Officers elected were: Assistant Supervisors—James Dofahue, Charles Melvin, Andrew Zide, Thomas Donovan, W. A. Murphy, John Laek, James W. Short, Ernest Coombs, Earl Kennedy, Arthur Doehler, G. B. Pearson, E. P. Kline, John C. Roberts and Dan F. Ruf. The last two are Republicans.

At housecleaning time use Old Dutch

Keeping well requires keeping your surroundings clean. That's the chief reason for housecleaning; the other reasons are your comfort and pride in a spick and span home.

Old Dutch is your greatest housecleaning help. It chases away dirt and grime and brings healthful cleanliness because it erases not only visible dirt but invisible impurities as well. Laboratory tests prove that surfaces cleaned with Old Dutch are hygienically clean. Avoid scratchy grit preparations. The sharp pointed particles of grit scratch the surface, and scratches are catchalls for impurities.

Old Dutch efficiency is due to its distinctive quality and character. To the eye a fine powder—under the microscope its particles are flaky and flat shaped. They make complete contact with the surface erasing all impurities without scratching. This extraordinary natural detergent makes Old Dutch Cleanser unequalled for economy, ease and quickness, and above all assures you healthful cleanliness. Goes farther—lasts longer.

LEGISLATURE PASSES APPROPRIATION BILLS

Resolution for Adjournment Tomorrow Carries After the House Acts.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, JEFFERSON CITY, April 8.—The deadlock in the Legislature over the appropriation bills was broken late this afternoon when the House jammed through the four bills which have been in controversy for the last four days. A resolution then was introduced calling for adjournment at noon tomorrow.

After several absentees had returned an afternoon train the joint conference committee reports on the bills, which previously had been recommended to the committees each time they were brought in the House, were put to a vote and adopted. The roll call showed 84 for the reports and seven against. The same roll call was recorded on passage of each bill.

Confusion During Vote. Considerable confusion resulted when the first bill, the funds and fees measure, was put to the test. On the roll call the bill did not have enough votes and there was a delay while members scurried around to get others. When the roll call was finished it carried, the names of Representatives Sanford of St. Louis and Asotky of Kansas City, who were not present as voting for the bill. Representative Hombs, who said he did not vote for the measure, also was recorded as voting for the bill. Demands for a verification of the vote were made by members who had voted against the measure. Speaker Jones Parker ignored them as she hammered with his gavel and declared passage of the measure. Repeated demands for the verification were howled down by other members.

Row Over Amendments. The passage of the bills was a defeat for House leaders who had attempted to out-manuever the Senate amendments reducing the appropriations. The Senate stood fast to the amendments and finally forced the House to adopt them.

REPORTS FIERY CROSS WAS BURNED IN CITY HALL PARK

John W. Beckerle Says He and Companion Stamped Out the Blaze.

A fiery cross, emblem of the Ku Klux Klan, was burning at the foot of the Laclede statue in City Hall Park shortly after midnight last night, John W. Beckerle, 1705 Lafayette avenue, reported to the Post-Dispatch today.

Beckerle said that he was standing at the Market street entrance to the City Hall listening to election returns when his attention was drawn to the burning cross by shouts of pedestrians on Market street. Accompanied by Edward Lohr, a fellow employee at the Cogan Express Co., 115 North Fifteenth street, Beckerle said he ran to the statue and stamped out the fire.

He described the cross as being about 2x3 feet, made of light lumber covered with burlap and saturated with kerosene. About 40 persons were attracted to the scene, he said.

The cross was carried to Twelfth boulevard and Market street by Beckerle and Lohr, where it was left, Beckerle said.

MRS. FRANK COLLIER INDICTED FOR DEATH OF SON-IN-LAW

Wife of Former Mayor of Wichita Falls, Tex., Is Freed on $10,000 Bond.

By the Associated Press, WICHITA FALLS, Tex., April 8.—Mrs. Frank Collier, wife of former Mayor Frank Collier, has been indicted for murder by the Wichita County grand jury in connection with the death of Elmer (Buster) Robertson, her son-in-law, who was shot and killed by her husband on the night of Feb. 14. Collier has already been found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the case and sentenced to three years in the State penitentiary. His case is on appeal.

Mrs. Collier was arrested and immediately released on $10,000 bond. The date of her trial has not yet been set. The killing of Robertson, who was the husband of Mary Frances Collier by a severe marriage at Walters, Ok., in June of 1924, proved a sensation in Wichita Falls, as did the trial of Collier, completed 10 days ago.

Mrs. Collier was with her husband when he killed Robertson. In her testimony at his trial she detailed events of the fatal night, describing how Collier took the gun with which he killed Buster away from her prior to the time they started in search of their daughter.

SHEPHERD SEEKS HABEAS WRIT

Petition Filed With Illinois Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press, SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 8.—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of William D. Shepherd was received by the Clerk of the Supreme Court at noon today. Through the medium of the press, the petition recites "Judge Harry Olson has instituted a campaign against this defendant, calculated to arouse public prejudice against him."

CONSTIPATION
means SHORTENED LIFE

When your bowels refuse to work and the poisons have to find other outlets such as your lungs, kidneys and skin, you are courting sickness and shortening your life. You are also running grave danger of dreadful disease. Do your bowels act at least twice daily? If not you are constipated and must do something right away or you may be gravely ill.

Dr. Caldwell's
SYRUP PEPSIN
The Family Laxative

TWO MORE CHIMPANZEES
ARRIVE AT FOREST PARK ZOO

Vierheller Also Bought Gnu, Crane and Whistling Swans on Eastern Trip.

"Bozo Butts" and "Barney Google" are the two newest characters to take up residence at the Forest Park Zoo. They are chimpanzees, joining the noted "Mike," the almost equally well known "Henry Kiel" and "Duffy," and another recent arrival, "Moco."

Superintendent Vierheller returned from New York with the new monkeys on Monday. When he encountered them at an animal dealer's, "Bozo Butts" was trying to do a cross-word puzzle on a typewriter and "Barney Google" was swinging from a chandelier, turning the light off and on by a cord.

Other purchases made by the superintendent on his Eastern trip, which will arrive later, include a pair of zebras, a pair of brindie gnu or African wild horses, and a collection of waterfowl, among which are flamingoes, cranes and whistling swans.

The fowl will augment the collection in the valley pond near the new monkey house, a section attracting even more attention of visitors now than formerly.

U. S. SCIENTISTS TO GET
DATA ON ALEUTIAN ISLANDS
Will Make Magnetic and Astronomical Observations and Measure Tide.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A scientific expedition to the little known chain of Aleutian Islands off the coast of Alaska is the task this summer of a special field party of the coast and geodetic survey, to be aided by the coast guard.

Equipped with modern apparatus, the party will be picked up by the coast guard, which will land it on one island of the group, resume its patrol work and later pick up the party and take it to another of the Aleutians.

The program of the party, which is to leave Seattle aboard the coast guard cutter Haida April 15, is to make a preliminary survey to collect data useful in a more thorough survey; to obtain magnetic observations, including determination of possible local magnetic disturbance due to the character of the rocks; to determine accurate positions by astronomical observations; to operate an automatic tide gauge, whenever conditions warrant, and to make topographic surveys of the harbors and collect coast pilot information.

The part will consist of Lieut. G. C. Jones, Ensign J. C. Bose and two men, all specially selected.

CITIZENS COMMITTEE GIVES
$274,782 TO STORM RELIEF

Grand Total of Subscriptions to Red Cross Is Expected to Exceed $2,500,000.

A total of $274,782.62 in subscriptions to the Red Cross fund for the relief of the tornado sufferers in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana has been made through the Citizens Committee, with headquarters at the Mercantile Trust Co. Additional subscriptions are still being made.

A. L. Schaeffer of the Red Cross
yesterday in an address at East St.
Louis predicted that the grand total relief fund from all sources will be between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000. He spoke before the East St. Louis Lions' Club in the F. W. C. A. rooms and gave a comprehensive outline of the way
the funds will be expended.

Farm relief was one of the first pieces of work to occupy the attention of the Red Cross. Caravans consisting of 40 or 50 men are sent out to do repair work on farms while the farmers go ahead with their planting, Schaeffer said.

JARDINE CALLS HIS HORSE 'CAL'
Secretary of Agriculture Exchanges Stock Saddle for English.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, who was a cowboy long before he became a Cabinet member, is becoming a frequent visitor to the capital's bridle paths, but he rides a horse named "Cal," and has eliminated from his equipment any article suggestive of his range-riding experience.

A sleek thoroughbred Morgan horse and modern riding togs have displaced the rugged cowboy pony and leather chaps of earlier days. Given his choice between an English riding saddle with the conventional short stirrups and a typical stock saddle with high pommel and can-tle and long stirrups, the Secretary selected the former. The horse, Cal, was raised at the Department of Agriculture's farm at Middlebury, Vt. His coat is dark chestnut and he has won several championship ribbons.

Reputed Bootlegger Found Slain.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, April 8.—Joseph Larson, 26 years old, said by police to have been a bootlegger and beerrunner, was slain here last night in an alley. His body with five bullet wounds was found by police when summoned by neighbors who heard the shots. Larson's automobile was identified, police say, as having carried the men who some time ago shot and killed Edmund O'Donnell in a South Side beer outbreak.

Friends Soon Forget

It is ONLY NATURAL that a man should think that his lifelong friend should handle his affairs with care, honesty and business sagacity. But the man who thinks this is thinking only for the present — for friends soon forget.

Yourestate may need the same conscientious and thoughtful care twenty-five or more years from the date of your death as it does a week after. But twenty-five years from that day your friend, if he is living, will find that your wishes have grown negligible to him through his absorption in his own business. The services of the St. Louis Union Trust Company as executor of your estate will place your financial affairs with an experienced organization which will give perpetual care and business management to your estate that will meet with the approval of your wishes.

The assurance you have that your estate will be administered with deliberate care and honesty, involving no larger fee than that paid an individual, is also worthy of your consideration.

Act today. A talk with our trust officers will not obligate you in any way

Dickerman Ready To Hurl Opening Game for Cards

Blanks American Legion Club for 8 Innings in Game at Albuquerque.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., April 8.—If Manager Branch Ricker elects a right-hander to oppose the Browns in the first or second game of the spring series at Sportsman's Park, next Saturday and Sunday, that right-hander will likely be Leo Dickerman, the elongated thrower who came to the Cardinals in the deal that sent Bill Doak to the Brooklyn club last summer.

And if Dickerman is the selection he seems well prepared for the test, judging from the workout he underwent in blanking an American Legion team here yesterday.

The home talent was unable to solve Dickerman and he handed out eight siphers. His teammates made the going easy for him as they piled up a total of 16 runs. Dickerman did not pitch the last inning, as Vincent Shields wanted a brief workout.

Wind Bad as Rain.

Quitting California where rain and wet grounds had kept the Cardinals out of uniform for a week, the knot-head gang expected to encounter better weather conditions in New Mexico. The sun was out, but a 70-mile gale was blowing and dashed the loose sand into the faces of the players as harshly as the wind.

If only Howard Freigau were able to maintain the pace he has set on the training trip. Freigau looks like a million dollars, as a ball player, when opposing team championship fight.

Freigau can hit, run and field like a demon, when the opposition doesn't mean anything. Put him in the lineup for any length of time during the championship season and he curls up. So does Mueller. Both players have so much native ability that it keeps Manager Ricker guessing what to do with them.

The Cardinals will play at Amarillo, Tex., today.

HAUSER'S INJURY LIKELY TO KEEP HIM OUT OF GAME FOR WHOLE SEASON

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Joe Hauser, the hard-hitting first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, is probably lost to Connie Mack for the season, as a result of his knee injury, received in yesterday's game with the Philadelphia Nationals.

An operation today confirmed the fear of surgeons that Hauser's knee cap was fractured. The doctors would not venture an opinion on how long Hauser would be out of the game, but it was believed he is through for the year. He is expected to remain in the hospital for a week, and in some cases in injuries such as Hauser's, the knee stiffens, but this was not expected in this case.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Joe Hauser, the hard-hitting first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, is probably lost to Connie Mack for the season, as a result of his knee injury, received in yesterday's game with the Philadelphia Nationals.

An operation today confirmed the fear of surgeons that Hauser's knee cap was fractured. The doctors would not venture an opinion on how long Hauser would be out of the game, but it was believed he is through for the year. He is expected to remain in the hospital for a week, and in some cases in injuries such as Hauser's, the knee stiffens, but this was not expected in this case.

HAUSER'S INJURY LIKELY TO KEEP HIM OUT OF GAME FOR WHOLE SEASON

INNING OF STECHER DEFEATS ORESTE VADALFI TWO OUT OF THREE FALLS

Italian Twice Dazed as Head Strikes Floor; Wins Fall With Flying Mare

Defense of Former Champion Too Stout for Defeated Wrestler at Nearly All Stages of the Contest—Largest Crowd of Season Views Bout.

By Dent McSkimming.

The tricks which enabled Oreste Vadalvi, Italian heavyweight wrestler to defeat London, Davis, Kolofo, Kotsanos and others in this season avoided nothing against the defense of Joe Stecher last night and the Italian lost two falls out of three in the main event of a show at the Coliseum. The largest crowd of the season, numbering about 8,000, attended.

Stecher's famous scissors consisted of a threat which forced Vadalvi to conduct his offensive in a manner, but as a matter of fact the leg pinners were seldom brought into actual use. The first fall went to Stecher after 56 minutes, when Vadalvi, in attempting to break a front headlock, fell backward with Stecher on top. Stecher struck the back of his head on the floor of the ring and made no resistance as Stecher rolled his shoulders to the mat.

The second fall was gained by Stecher with a series of flying mare, free big munn's stuff. The men entered the ring for the third fall they shook hands and exchanged a few preliminary words, when suddenly Vadalvi, who was up with a crotch, staggered to the ropes and his big arm, but just as he was about to drop the burden on the side, Referee Meyers interrupted him. Then Vadalvi again lost his balance and top-

Ruth Will Be Out Of Game for 10 Days Because of Illness

By the Associated Press. ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 8. BABE RUTH, of the New York Yankees, who suffered a collapse here yesterday, following a recent attack of influenza, will leave this afternoon for New York preparatory to the opening of the American League baseball campaign next Tuesday. Ruth's condition today was described as "improved."

Ruth spent yesterday and last night under the care of physicians following his collapse in the railway station here on the arrival of the team from Knoxville. He was unconscious a portion of the day, physicians said, as a result of a severe attack of the grippe following an attack of influenza earlier in the spring.

He will be out of the game 10 days, Huggins said, declaring Ruth had not been physically able to take part in the exhibition games. He "has been playing in them simply on his nerve," the manager said.

Hubbard Equals 50-Yard Record

Riley Credited With a New Mark for 50-Yard High Hurdle Race.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, April 8.—Dehart Hubbard, negro athlete of the University of Michigan, tied the world's record of 51-5 seconds for the 50-yard high hurdle race.

Hubbard, who is a sophomore, was one of the favorites for the second night's meet of the Michigan A. A. U. here. Search of record books failed to produce a mark for the 50-yard high hurdle over four hurdles indoors on a dirt track which Riley made last night in 51-10 seconds.

Paavo Nurmi had competition from Egil Krogh, Illinois A. C., and Jimmy Connolly, former Georgetown University star distance man, for the first 2000 meters of the 5000-meter feature of the night, but finished first and 100 yards ahead of Krogh. His time was 8 minutes and 56 seconds, nearly half a minute behind his best American time for the distance.

Charles Roake, regarded as one of the leading half milers of the Western Conference, finished second in the 800-yard run, close on the heels of Ray Dodge, Illinois A. C. Dodge's time was 2 minutes and 8-10 seconds.

Willie Ritola lapped his field four times to win the 5000-meter run. Joe Ray, beaten recently in the mile by Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A., tasted defeat from the same source last night, Hahn winning the quarter mile run in 3 minutes and 17 seconds.

The surprise of the carnival was the defeat by Paul Jones of the Illinois A. C. of James Brooker, University of Michigan pole vaulter. Brooker, who came within a fraction of an inch of the world's indoor record at Ann Arbor March 28, vaulting 13 feet 3/4 inch, could not go over the bar tonight at 12 feet 3 inches, Jones winning at that height.

Babe Ruth Says:

NEW YORK, April 8. I T looks as though John McGraw has whipped together the strongest club he has had in five years, and right now I can't see a thing to stand in the way of a fifth straight pennant for the Giants.

McGraw seems to have everything. He has a strong infield. He has the strongest outfield in the National League. His pitching ought to be even better than it was last year, and above everything, he has the hitting punch. Man for man, all the way down the line, McGraw has the best team he has taken North in many a year.

In winning four straight pennants, McGraw did one of the hardest things in the baseball world. If he wins his fifth he will upset all the "dope" again. A lot of people think it is impossible. Only those who know the real McGraw know that nothing is impossible for him—so far as baseball is concerned.

I think—all of us in baseball—that McGraw is one of the great men of the game. We have a lot of respect for his knowledge and we admire him and his way of doing things.

He told me that he could use another pitcher or two, but that he was ready for everything just as he stood.

"Will we win the pennant?" he repeated my question. "I don't know what's going to stop us."

This is Another Year. I ASKED him if the percentage wasn't against him winning for the fifth straight time. I pointed out that there was a jinx to be considered.

"The first place I don't believe in jinxes," said McGraw. "I believe in baseball."

There is no reason why a fifth pennant shouldn't be as easy to win as a second or third or fourth. I don't allow my club to get into a rut. They know they won for the last four times is forgotten in my camp. This is another year, and has nothing to do with what has gone before. When we step out we'll play as the Giants had never won a pennant. And we'll come through, too."

The Giants have gained strength while some of the other National League clubs have been standing still. McGraw never stands pat. He has a fine out-

Derby Candidates In Kentucky Now Near Racing Form

Capt. Hal and Two Other Eligibles Show Good Mile Workouts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LOUISVILLE, April 8.—Three colts at Churchill Downs, Captain Hal, Lee O. Cotner and Drowsy Waters, eligibles for the Kentucky Derby, have worked in the same time, a mile in 1:43 4-5, in training for their early engagements. Captain Hal got his much needed mile, yesterday, when Trainer Hopkins had him step along on his own courage for the distance. His work was even more impressive than Drowsy Waters' trial, Monday, from the fact that he showed much more speed near the finish of the journey.

Breaking at the five-eighths pole, the son of Black Toney, under stout restraint, stepped the first quarter in :25, the half in :50 2-5, the three-quarters in 1:17 and the mile in 1:43 4-5, well in hand.

Fast Trial at Lexington. Derby candidates are coming along nicely at Lexington, Alma-del, by Ulimus-Busy Lass, by Meddel, owned by Hal Price Headley, showed an impressive trial over the mile route. The clockers caught him by eighths in :12 1-5, :24, :35 4-5, :49 3-5, 1:03, 1:16 1-5, 1:30, 1:43 3-5.

The colt pulled up in good shape and work-watches pronounced him as one worth while. This is the best time made in Kentucky, this year, by a Derby eligible.

Traymore, owned by George Caniff and trained by George Land, showed the fastest five-eighths of the training season at Lexington when he went that distance in 1:44-5. Menifee, Gallagher Brothers' derby candidate, showed plenty of foot when he stepped five-eighths in 1:01 2-5.

Kentucky Cardinal, Desha Breckinridge's derby hope, worked an even three-quarters, the clockers catching him at the half in :50 2-5 and the three-quarters in 1:17 2-5.

Frank Garber's Stenalong worked a creditable half in :52. The big colt, Son of John, owned by Dan Scott, showed a half in :50 3-5. This colt seems to be improving with every trial.

Old Slip, another of Hal Price Headley's derby candidates, worked a creditable three-quarters. His time was caught in 1:17 4-5. M. C. Moore's Dr. A. L. Briggs did a half in :51.

Five Star Players Will Be Out Of Opening Games Next Tuesday

Ruth Because of Illness and Hauser of Athletics With Knee Injury Have Joined Maranville, Grigsby and Heimach—Frisch Is Handicapped.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 8.—Injury and illness which have left the ranks of National League teams depleted now have set upon those of the American.

The training season has exacted a heavy toll and at least two great infield players, Walter (Rabbit) Maranville of the Chicago Cubs and Joe Hauser of the Philadelphia Athletics, will be out of the game for the greater part of the year.

Maranville, who was expected to take Maranville's place, and "Twin Six" Arnold Stutz, Cliff Heathcote and Hack Miller are expected to guard the outfield until Grigsby can return. In the loss of Hauser, Connie Mack suffered a blow as was that received by Jack Hendricks of the Cincinnati Reds, when the veteran Jake Daubert died during the winter.

Fred Heimach of the Athletics will be unable to take his turn at the start of the season next week, as he has suffered a dislocated shoulder.

Ruth Goes on Shelf. Meanwhile illness more serious than the previous attacks this spring has put an end to Babe Ruth's appearances for the Yankees for the time being and he will be unable to start against Washington at the Yankee stadium next Tuesday.

Injuries are hampering the Giants' infield. Heinie Groh, third baseman, who has kept his feet against the most vicious batsmen, was unable to play in the "world series" last fall because of an injured leg and the youthful Freddie Lindstrom took his place. Now, with a new season at hand, Little Heinie appears as strong as ever, while Lindstrom and Frank Frisch are having trouble.

The match was the feature of the championship flight. The Bostonian won with an eagle 3 on the extra hole and was never down to his opponent.

Records of Liquor Ring Seized.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Early reports that a police raid on the headquarters of a big liquor ring would disclose activity in the bribery of police and prohibition agents were not made good, when Chief of Police Collins declared that records seized in the raid showed only a minute account of illicit operations. lins said, are valuable only as evidence of a highly organized liquor traffic and criminal activity, and will be turned over to State Attorney Crowe.

Politics and Politicians

Coolidge Hasn't Uttered a Word About 1928, but if the Country Is Prosperous Then He May Bow to a Popular Demand—Hoover and Dawes Foremost Contenders if He Doesn't.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World WASHINGTON, April 8.—President Coolidge's habit of never saying anything until he has to is a convenience. It has saved him from the dilemma in which Theodore Roosevelt found himself when, in the flush of exaltation at his triumph election "in his own right," he forewore any intention of striving to succeed himself.

Not since the earliest days of the republic has a President voluntarily left the White House, though nearly all of them at the beginning of a second term and some at the beginning of a first have disclaimed any thought of a consequent term, usually with an approving comment on the instinct of the people and the precedent of the Founding Fathers against any approach to perpetuation of one man's presence in the highest office in the country. Coolidge, however, has never uttered a word on the subject, which leaves him free of all future entanglements.

If, in the spring of 1928 the country is prosperous the armers of the West are as near contentment as they were in November, 1924, and the European situation is improved, the President may bow to a popular demand; if, on the other hand, the wheat crop is unpromising, an insurgent movement is stirring in the Republican party or even if the sentiment of the country appears to be crystallizing around some other figure, Coolidge will be in perfect position to mention his desire to serve in the ranks with a few feeling words about the historical demonstration of the wisdom of the policy which insists on rotation in office.

Until that time comes the various gentlemen who are thinking of succeeding Coolidge will have to depend on signs, omens and outcroppings in calculating what course he intends to pursue. Just now they are watching to see what will happen if John W. Weeks resigns from the War Department, as he is expected to do on the score of ill health.

If Postmaster-General. One prophecy is that in this case Harry New will be transferred to the War Department from the postmaster generalship. Who would succeed New? Perhaps C. Bascom Sloop would be taken back into favor to repeat on a national scale in preparation for 1932 convention, what he did with the Southern delegations in the spring of 1924. William M. Butler probably would veto that. But certainly if anybody of Sloop's political acumen goes into the Postoffice Department it will be taken to mean that Coolidge is laying the foundation for his 1928 primary campaign.

For the handling of the postmasters by an expert is the surest way of establishing control of a national convention. More particularly that came to him during the war. People generally do not know just what he has done in the Department of Commerce, and they did not know what he was doing in war days; but the tradition of his efficiency is still lively enough for them to take it for granted that the more or less mysterious doings of his technical department have been handled quite remarkably. Of course, Hiram Johnson is to be reckoned with in this respect. For Hoover would have to bring the California delegation to the convention. But in 1928 Hiram Johnson will have his own Senatorship to look after, if indeed he does not decide by that time he has had enough of the Senate and politics in general. There is a big law business beckoning to the California Senator. His bid as a presidential possibility has been shot and he is rather in eclipse in the Senate. Moreover the result of the 1924 primaries showed that his trip to California has slipped, and if Hoover runs with the backing of the President, it is doubtful whether Johnson could stop him. This hasty reckoning leaves out of consideration Senator Wadsworth of New York. The Wadsworth horoscope must presume a successful battle with Al Smith for the governorship in 1926 and the prestige which would come from such a triumph. However, unless the sun is shining in 1928, the West is not likely to take an eastern candidate. And if everything is bright it is assumed that Coolidge will hold on. So the students of the political form charts do not see exactly where Wadsworth figures in the reckoning.

Charged Body Yet Unidentified.
By the Associated Press.
POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 8.—The identity of the young woman whose charred body was found on a railroad track here last Sunday, remained a mystery today. Anna Sullivan, who was supposed to have been the victim of slayings, was found in Shamokin, Pa., where she had been since March 23, the day she left her home here.

COTTON BELT SEEKS TO BLOCK $107,078 TAX COLLECTION.

Amount Is Claimed by City of Road's Real Estate Here From 1914 to 1921.

Suit was filed by the Cotton Belt Railway in Circuit Court today to enjoin Collector Koehn from enforcing payment to the city by the railroad of $107,078 in taxes claimed by the city on the road's real estate in St. Louis for 1914 to 1921, inclusive. The property includes a Florida street freight depot and the right-of-way.

The suit alleges that the Collector is powerless to collect these taxes under the State Constitution, the property being assessed only by the State Tax Commission, or State Board of Equalization. It is asserted that the railroad has paid taxes on its property here under general State assessment of all property in Missouri, and that collection by the city would amount to double taxation. The Comptroller billed the road for these taxes last December, the suit recites, claiming that the taxes previously had been omitted from the books.

The city has entered appearance in the suit. And was published last December, the taxes claimed by the city were shown by an audit then to have been omitted. The audit was made in the inquiry following discovery more than a year ago of the tax assessment reduction scandal. Public officials suggested that the Legislature ought to clarify the relations between State and city assessment authorities over railroad assessments.

ARCHITECTS AND ENGINEERS APPOINTED FOR PLAZA WORK

Board of Public Service Announces Selection Authorized, in an Ordinance.

Eight groups of architects and two engineering firms who will design and supervise the construction of public buildings on and around the Memorial Plaza, provided for in the $37,000,000 bond issue, were appointed by the Board of Public Service today. The appointments were authorized in an ordinance approved last Saturday.

The architectural firms named are: Mauran, Russell & Crowell; La Beaume & Klein; William B. Itiner; Klipstein & Rothmann; T. P. Barnett & Co.; Preston J. Bradshaw; George D. Barnett, Inc.; and Helfenstein, Hirsch & Watson. The engineering concerns are those of Frederick C. Taxis and Brunsell & Vetter.

HOOPER'S POPULARITY.
Meantime, I think that Herbert Hoover retains much of the popularity that came to him during the war. People generally do not know just what he has done in the Department of Commerce, and they did not know what he was doing in war days; but the tradition of his efficiency is still lively enough for them to take it for granted that the more or less mysterious doings of his technical department have been handled quite remarkably. Of course, Hiram Johnson is to be reckoned with in this respect. For Hoover would have to bring the California delegation to the convention. But in 1928 Hiram Johnson will have his own Senatorship to look after, if indeed he does not decide by that time he has had enough of the Senate and politics in general. There is a big law business beckoning to the California Senator. His bid as a presidential possibility has been shot and he is rather in eclipse in the Senate. Moreover the result of the 1924 primaries showed that his trip to California has slipped, and if Hoover runs with the backing of the President, it is doubtful whether Johnson could stop him. This hasty reckoning leaves out of consideration Senator Wadsworth of New York. The Wadsworth horoscope must presume a successful battle with Al Smith for the governorship in 1926 and the prestige which would come from such a triumph. However, unless the sun is shining in 1928, the West is not likely to take an eastern candidate. And if everything is bright it is assumed that Coolidge will hold on. So the students of the political form charts do not see exactly where Wadsworth figures in the reckoning.

TONTRUP ORDERED TO

Insurance Policies With Surrender Value of $8000 Uncovered at Hearing.

The tendency of George H. Tontrup, president of the Standard Equipment and Machinery Co., and the National Safety Car and Equipment Co., both bankrupt, to view the financial wreck of his two concerns somewhat lightly drew a rebuke from Referee Coles yesterday during testimony concerning Tontrup's personal assets.

The rebuke followed Tontrup's admission that he had failed to include six insurance policies, having a cash surrender value of $8000, in his schedule of assets. Tontrup listed six policies of $2000 cash value in his schedule and the $8000 additional insurance was uncovered by the trustees in the case. "You will be held responsible for the accuracy of your schedules," Referee Coles said. "Schedules of assets are not a mere formality. You will be given an opportunity of filing an amended schedule and setting these things right."

The additional insurance policies bring Tontrup's assets to approximately $95,000, against which are creditors' claims of $211,000. The Standard Co. was sued in bankruptcy by creditors last summer after the National company had been placed in bankruptcy by stockholders during Tontrup's European honeymoon.

Tontrup was also questioned regarding the disposition of property at 4812 McPherson avenue, which he testified was purchased for a former employee of the National Equipment Co. This part of the inquiry tended to show apparent friendly relations between Tontrup and the late Selwyn C. Edgar, whose widow is now Tontrup's wife. Edgar loaned him the money to purchase the house, Tontrup said, and later gave the deed to his wife, who turned it over to Tontrup for disposition following her marriage to him. The hearing will be resumed at a time to be announced.

U. S. PROBABLY WOULD ADMIT DEPOSED CHINESE EMPEROR

Huang Tung Is Said to Wish to Attend College and Establish Museum in America.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—If the deposed Chinese Emperor, Huang Tung, or Henry Puyi as he now styles himself, wishes to come to the United States, there probably would be no objection to his entering the country, it is indicated by Government officials.

Reports from Tientsin, where the young Manchu is seeking asylum after his escape from soldiers of the "Christian General" Fen Yu-Hsiang in the Chinese quarter of Peking, quote the deposed Emperor as saying he wished to come to the United States to complete his education, preferably at Columbia University or Hamilton College, after which he would like to establish a museum housing Manchu works of art.

Under the terms of the first abdication, signed Feb. 12, 1912, the former Emperor was to retain all titles and to receive an annual grant of $4,000,000 in silver, to have a residence in the "Forbidden City," and he permitted to issue "moral and cultural decrees." At that time he was 8 and had been Emperor since Dec. 2, 1909. The second abdication, which he was forced to sign Dec. 31 last, deprived him of all titles and perquisites.

DRUG ADDICTS FILL PRISONS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The great growth in New York's prison population, as disclosed by Corrections Commissioner Wallis, is largely due to increase of drug addiction. Commissioner Wallis explained yesterday.

"Any other statements or arguments to the contrary," he said, "is the fact. Whereas a few years ago we thought the number high if we had as many as 100 addicts in our city prisons, today 50 per cent of the approximately 1000 prisoners under this department are drug addicts or drug peddlers. At Rikers Island alone there are 114 persons who have voluntarily committed themselves in order to take the drug cure. An alarming feature of the situation is the youth of these addicts, number of young men brought in on first offenses whose first use of drugs is increasing very noticeably."

The average age of inmates who are users of drugs is 22 years. I fence is use of drugs is increasing very noticeably."

PONCE DE LEON LANDS AT ST. AUGUSTINE AGAIN

WHY WE EAT

By Clyde B. Schuman
National Director, Nutrition Service, American Red Cross.

AMERICANS generally are not intelligent about food. That is true of most peoples. Taking things for granted is one of man's besetting sins because mental laziness has become a habit. It is the custom to eat. So we do eat, without asking ourselves why or what we let utterly. But taste is a matter of cultivation. In just such a way our friend of the cannibals tribes takes his food. It has long been a tribal custom to like human bits, so he has developed his individual taste.

We are not in that stage, but many of us are still as unintelligent. Why, Americans are known as a coffee-drinking, candy-eating people who are lovers of overmuch starchy foods. Isn't it usual for some people to drink as many as 10 cups of coffee a day, and for some girls to eat actually a pound of candy daily? Yet, nutrition is a science in this country and should be a popular one because of its close relation to health. "Science" sounds imposing, but it really simplifies matters for the term comes from a Latin word which merely means "I know." So it is comparatively easy to be a scientific about food.

What we have to know is the food eaten must be able to do four things: to build up new or repair worn tissue, whether muscle, bone, nerve or blood; to provide the energy for everyday work; to regulate the processes of the body so that it runs like a machine easily and smoothly with every single part doing its share, and to promote growth and health so that a man or woman always feels fresh and vigorous. If what is eaten does not do that for you, ask yourself what is missing. It is just a matter of common-sense in choosing. Nutrition does not mean a rigid "diet." It includes all the really good things.

Meats, fish, poultry, breadstuffs and other grain products are valuable for repairing worn tissue. As they contain much protein, they supply the nitrogen essential to every cell in the body. But there is no storehouse for protein, as there is for another class of foods which are stored as fat. Any excess plus has to be eliminated so that it too great a quantity of foods rich in protein is eaten, the kidneys are strained in the endeavor to carry on more work than they normally should in order to get rid of it.

Sugars and fats are transformed into energy by the body, supplementing in large measure that supplied by other foods. These are the ones that the body stores, the base of the obese.

For growth and health vitamins are wanted. They have emerged from the obscurity of laboratories into the light of everyday life. Subjects for jokes are always well known in the United States—but their importance cannot be laughed away. In fact, they are so important that they deserve a section all to themselves. We will content ourselves with saying here that they are contained in milk, fruits, vegetables and whole grains. From these four points it is obvious that in the interests of health the body demands every day milk; meat, fish or poultry for eggs and protein vegetables; butter or other fats; cereals such as bread or in other forms; vegetables, particularly the green, leafy kind; fruit, and plenty of water.

EDITH GOULD'S Own Story of the LIFE of a RICH GIRL

EDITH AND GLORIA GOULD.

The two youngest daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould were inseparable companions as children. They were educated together and were wide-eyed spectators of the activities of their older brothers and sisters. Now Edith is Mrs. Carroll Livingston Wainwright, with two children of her own, and Gloria is Mrs. Henry A. Bishop, Jr., and has one child.

MRS. STUYVESANT FISH AND MRS. GEORGE J. GOULD.

This photograph was made by Mr. Gould at Furlough Lodge, his country estate in the Catskills, about twenty years ago. Mr. Gould was very systematic in his photography, every print that he made bearing, in his own handwriting, the date, place, distance and the nature of the light. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, readers will recall, was leader of New York society for many years.

MRS. GEO. J. GOULD.

This photograph was taken about the time of Edith's birth, and shows the famous pearl collection and tiara, which have been sold, in accordance with Mrs. Gould's will, and the proceeds placed in a trust fund for the children.

The Interesting Autobiography of a Daughter of One of America's Multi-Millionaires.

By EDITH GOULD WAINWRIGHT.

Daughter of George J. Gould and Granddaughter of Jay Gould.

CHAPTER II.

ALTHOUGH it was the custom of the Gould family for the children to spend virtually all of their lives in the open, it must not be supposed that they did not undergo a regular and assiduous form of education. Next to our health our parents considered the question of education as paramount.

"There is no excuse in the world," my mother used to remark, "for people that are well off to neglect the benefits and joys of education. The greatest blessing that wealth brings is the power to absorb knowledge."

Of all the various branches of learning, my mother considered foreign languages the most important. "As we grew up and traveled abroad and mingled here with visitors of distinction from other countries her wisdom became more and more manifest."

From our earliest childhood we had foreign governesses who taught us their own particular tongues. In general supervision of education was Miss Caroline Cortis, who although 19 or 15 years older than my mother, had been her childhood friend in Brooklyn.

Miss Cortis, on a visit to our home, made some suggestions as to plan outlook on life. Today she probably realizes that some of the tenets to which she so persistently clung during our childhood have become thoroughly outmoded and that education is now conducted upon more liberal principles.

Relationship between elders and children is no longer the stilted affair it used to be, because candor has replaced tightly-lipped silence. Subjects are discussed today with youngsters that only a few years ago were held taboo.

An idea of how effective a governess may be can be had from the fact that my first Italian governess, Signorina Annunziata Camilla Maria Lucet, is now Mrs. Kingdon Gould. This unusual marriage caused my mother much sorrow because she had held such high hopes for Kingdon. Her ideal mate for him was a certain blonde, blue-eyed belle who was a friend of our sister, Marjorie.

In addition to these teachers, there was always in the household a trained nurse to set us right on matters of health. There was also present a violin teacher for the special benefit of George, who, before he was 5 years old, showed talent on that instrument. (This teacher stayed with us until George went to the Browning School in New York, at which time he came under the tutelage of Mr. Henry P. Schmitt, a great artist on both the violin and piano, and for a lengthy period first violinist of the Philharmonic Orchestra of New York.)

If George had been a poor boy I believe he would have become a violinist of great importance, ranking with Kreisler, Mischa Elman or Kubelik. This was his consuming ambition, but when he voiced his desire to devote his life to music my father objected so strenuously that George reluctantly gave up the idea of becoming a professional violinist and studied law as my father directed.

When you think of Georgian Court, the childhood home of George J. Gould's children, dispel from your mind any notion that it was a hermetically sealed, over-stuffed, super-steam-heated establishment. The Gould children were not raised in cotton batting. They were not guarded from every slight breeze. They were not swathed in heavy clothing.

On the contrary, my mother, Edith Kingdon Gould, was a pioneer in not only a belief in the value of fresh air but a vigorous and consistent practitioner of the slogan "Open the Windows." Sunlight, fresh air and exercise were virtually the only medicines she used for her children. From the time we were born we slept out of doors all day, both in summer and in winter. Later when we were old enough for lessons, our instruction was given on the broad terrace of Georgian Court, again both in summer and winter.

I hasten to add that we did not haphazardly lie in our perambulators or sit in our chairs at school during howling blizzards, but every winter day that was snowed or rainless found us outside. There was no steam heat in the children's bedrooms. The chill was taken off the room in the morning by an open log fire, but this was not kept burning all day.

As we began to run around our clothes were chosen for their extreme simplicity and usefulness. For playing about the grounds I was dressed by mother in little boys' suits, as she believed that this gave greater freedom to the limbs. From our earliest years our exercises and recreations were strictly and intelligently supervised.

All of the children were taught to swim at 4 or 5 years of age. As a consequence all of us spent many enjoyable hours in the indoor pool at Georgian Court. Riding was another sport taught us at the same age. Under competent riding masters we learned not only to ride, but to saddle and unsaddle the horses and how to prevent their taking cold after they came into the stables sweated from a long gallop. No Gould child ever rode into the stables, dismounted, flung the reins over the horse's head and said to a groom: "Take care of it!" Each child took care of his or her own mount; that is, he or she saw that it was properly stabled and fed.

Riding was always a diversion at Georgian Court, as is attested by the capacity of the stables, which contained accommodations for more than 100 horses. At such times as my father and brothers, Kingdon and Jay, were playing polo, a company of 50 grooms was engaged in caring for the animals. As soon as we were old enough we went in for skating, bicycling and later golf. Papa having had private links laid out on the grounds. At our summer home in the Catskill Mountains, a place that we called Furlough Lodge, we were initiated into the fascinating sport of dry-fly fishing. Shooting also was on our program; indeed, it was a very important part of our lives. Papa was and my brothers still are among the foremost shots of the country.

These outdoor recreations proved their worth. The youngsters were singularly free from childhood diseases. While many children run the gamut of ailments, we knew practically nothing of them.

My mother did not forget, in her enthusiasm for these outdoor diversions, that value of dancing and general deportment. Once a week a teacher came to Lakewood and in the grand ballroom we were all led through the steps of the waltz and the minuet and other dances that promoted grace of manner and action. Besides this we were shown the proper manner of entering and leaving a room, and poise and carriage. I will never forget how hard it was for me to remember to keep my toes turned out.

While Vivien and Gloria and I were spending the winter with us, looking forward to and enjoyed these instructions, my brother George detested them and preferred to play baseball with George Adams, the cook's son, and the latter's friends.

This private dancing class was just a forerunner of the large society dancing classes that I was to attend later in New York.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR GARDEN GROW

By Paul A. Kohl.

Floriculturist, Missouri Botanical Garden.

NO. 1—GARDENING.

THE time for gardening is again with us. The veteran home gardener is already at it and those who have never gardened before feel themselves urged on to try their luck. Many consider the growing of flowers and vegetables as something mysterious that only a chosen few can successfully accomplish. However, with a little effort on the part of the amateur gardener to supply the plants with the few essentials that are necessary for their welfare, it is surprising what results may be obtained. Oftentimes failure in the garden is due to attempting to grow some odd, rare or delicate plant that only an experienced gardener can bring to perfection after many trials.

The soil is the most important item to consider before growing flowers or vegetables. Next in importance is the location. All plants must have some sunshine and most plants need all they can get. Plants that are planted in the shade of trees or buildings will grow but gradually become weak and sickly. Clay, a mixture of clay and cinders, or sub-soil to which has been added a liberal amount of stones, bricks, plastering laths, etc., when the house was built, are the predominating soils in most yards. Only in rare cases is an ideal soil found for gardening purposes. This means that before attempting to grow anything some work must be done on the soil to bring it into shape for gardening. A clay soil is very much improved if it is spaded in the fall and the large lumps left exposed to the action of frost. The alternate freezing and thawing during the winter will gradually break apart the particles of soil and such a clay soil will be in much better condition in the spring. This is no time to recommend such a method of treating clay soil, but it is a procedure for handling such soils that prove to be heavy and sticky when worked this spring.

Heavy clay soils can be improved by applying garden loam, rotted manure, sand or if necessary, cinders, before spading. Those leaves that are raked in neat piles last fall and burned would make ideal material for incorporating into any kind of soil in the spring. Hat it they been gathered and piled into some corner of the yard, the grass clippings added, and left to rot during the winter, they would now be in fine condition to use in the garden. Keeping leaves and grass clippings for future use is another point to remember if anyone wants to become a successful gardener. It might be well to warn against spading clay soils when very wet. If spaded when the soil is soggy clay soils will cake and when the lumps dry become so very hard that they cannot be broken without any amount of raking. If the amateur gardener is fortunate in securing a small load of stable manure for his yard he will have a material that is rich in plant food and that will improve his heavy soil. In the absence of stable manure a dusting of bonemeal or sheep manure, before spading the soil, will greatly benefit the plants that are grown. Both of these fertilizers may be purchased in any of the stores handling supplies for the garden. Whatever the type of soil it must be thoroughly spaded and raked at this time to bring the surface in a fine state for sowing the seeds. A stout, steel-toothed rake is the proper tool to use. A set of garden tools should include a good spade, rake, hoe, trowel, hand weeding hook, watering can and a hose. The number and variety of tools may be increased, but those mentioned are the essential ones.

Tips for the Housewife.

Fill a bottle with ice water. When making pies, and you will have a good substitute for the glass rolling pin. You will also produce a light, flaky crust.

Use a cupful of soda to a gallon of boiling water when trying to clear a waste pipe. Repeat until water runs freely.

MARRIAGE SCALES

CHAPTER 23.
TWO PEOPLE ARE WRETCHED
WHEN Craig Cullum walked in at the pageant committee's headquarters the following morning, Doris gave him a blithe greeting, but went busily on dictating to a stenographer.

There was a little more color in her cheeks, but she gave no further evidence of his presence, and he was immediately seized upon by the redoubtable Mrs. Amos Hunter Deering, who looked more than ever like an impressive bit of overstuffed furniture in a futuristic gown of sprawling black and white figures.

Cullum escaped her finally, successfully dodged Isobel and a fluttering group of lesser social lights, and made his way to Doris' desk.

"Couldn't you manage to have luncheon with me before rehearsal?" I've just thought of several changes I want to talk over with you."

She shook her head, smiling brightly.

"So sorry—but I have a luncheon engagement. Thanks just the same."

She didn't mention with whom her engagement was, but Cullum was not long in finding out. Before he departed to lunch alone, in spite of Isobel's languishing willingness to prevent such a catastrophe, he saw Dick Jervis coming striding importantly into the room and make for Doris' desk. To Cullum, seized by demon of jealousy, there was something maddening about the man's insolent bearing. There was malice and triumph in the glance he shot in Cullum's direction, though he did not acknowledge by so much as the flicker of an eyelash that he was aware of the young actor's presence.

Cullum, of course, did not know that Doris had deliberately maneuvered this luncheon engagement with Jervis. Determined, after Cabbage Soup.

Wash and shred two small cabbages, using a cutter if more convenient. Cover the cabbage with boiling water and let it come slowly to boiling point, then strain off the water. Now add two pints of boiling water, a pint of hot milk, a tablespoonful each of minced onion and chopped parsley, and salt, pepper, a little sugar, one ounce of butter and two tablespoonfuls of crushed tapioca or sago. Boil gently for 20 minutes, or until the sago is transparent; then serve.

Children's Story

Drumming a Drum

"ALL my life I have believed that Thunderer the Green Forest was a log. I remember the dear Old Briar Patch when over what he had seen in Green Forest the day before. I was told that when I was a fellow, and until yesterday I once doubted it. But then Thunderer was drumming on a log, and I was sure it wasn't hollow, and is covered with moss. Thunderer was broken without making a noise worth mentioning. On a log, so of course a log does have anything to do with it. I supposed that Thunderer roll, and once more always uses a log, but if I was a drummer that he moved doesn't." He found out that Thunderer didn't have to have a hollow log on which to drum, and now that he didn't have to have a log at all. "He drums just as well on a rock as on a log," muttered Peter.

All that day he spent watching Thunderer whenever he was to be found by his drumming. And so he was looking for a log. He made sure that little Mrs. Green Forest was not when at last he saw the Green Forest lipperty-lipperty-lip. His white powderpuff tail bobbed up, down, up, down, as he scampered as fast as his long legs could take him.

When he reached the Green Forest he sat up and waited.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

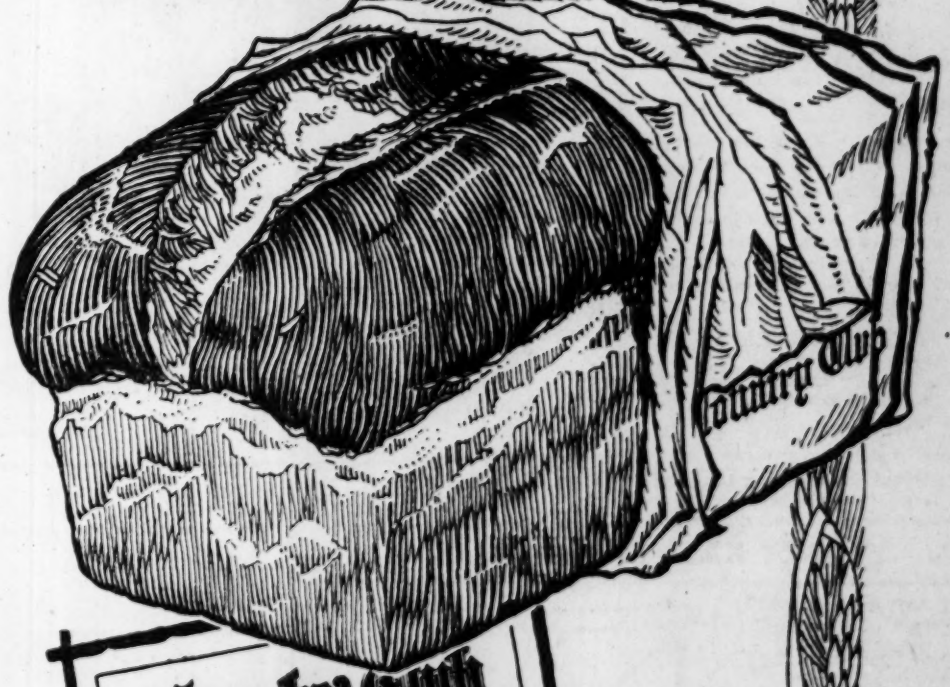

Remnants.
The woman who has a number of small kiddies is the one who benefits by the sales of washable remnants in the large department stores. She can get enough material for two little rompers or suits for the price one pays for one by careful buying and a knowledge of just how much she needs for each little garment. You will find this wise mother has a notebook in her handbag in which she keeps the amounts required written down and no good bargain will escape her watchful eye by not knowing just how much she needs.

Just Common Sense.
If you find you can buy non-perishable foods in bulk and obtain better prices, do so. You will probably find a number of friends and neighbors who will gladly go in with you and thus save you all quite a lot.

By careful cooking and planning, many inexpensive cuts of meat can be used and result in better-flavored, better-cooked and more wholesome meals at a smaller cost. This may mean a little more time devoted to cooking for the housewife, but she will find it interesting in the long run.

WHAT'LL IT BE GENTS?

ACCORDING to the latest news Our Uncle Sam may buy the booze. That druggists are supposed to use in filling their prescriptions. He then could open a saloon. And on the wets confer a boon. Dispensing prewar stuff and "moon" Of various descriptions.

With Uncle Sam behind the bar There'd be a rush from near and far. For he could sell his stuff at par And guarantee the label. The plaintive song: "How dry I am!" Would sure appeal to Uncle Sam. The flood of phony hooch to dam. He surely would be able.

Of course the booze prescription doc Will be the first to feel the shock. When Uncle Sam has bought the stock. In which he had been dealing. A lot of trade he's bound to lose When other methods he must use. Besides a shot or two of booze To cure that tired feeling.

CUTTING REMARKS.

The barbers have decided that it would be sheer folly to raise the price of haircuts to 75 cents before thoroughly investigating the conditions governing the hair growing industry.

KAROLYI FORESEES WAR OF REVENGE IN CENTRAL EUROPE

Asserts America's Loan Hungary Is Being Used in Monarchist Plot Restore German Empire

Assails Horthy in Canadian Interview

Declares Present Turn of Events Could Have Been Avoided Had the Allies Made Wilsonian Peace.

An article by Count Karolyi, written for the Post-Dispatch, sets forth what he would have done in the United States, if he had been "gagged" by the State Department in Washington, is printed on the first page of the editorial section of this issue of the Post-Dispatch.

MONTRIEAL, April 7.—Standing on Canadian soil, where he could utter words choked back in America by the State Department, Count Michael Karolyi last night turned his vocal forces into a warning that a "war of revenge" is brewing in Central Europe, and that if comes within a few years "America may know that she has financed it."

In a talk with newspaper correspondents on European problems, he thinks Americans should be wiser than the exiled first President of Hungary pictured the present Horthy Hungarian Government as part of a plan by which the Hapsburgs and monarchists hope to gain their prewar power in Central Europe, re-establish the old German Empire and bring back the lines that existed before (stated America, he pictured as unfairly aiding the program. The money America has lent Hungary is being used by the Horthy regime in imperialistic projects certain to bring war, and within six months Hungary will be seeking new loans to continue the work, the Count declared.

Blaming Count Szechenyi, the whole plot to keep him silent during his stay in New York was inspired by the Horthy group, he said, adding that he feared "the truth" would upset the kettle, he said, adding that he feared that this period of silence was imposed directly through Count Szechenyi, Hungarian envoy in Washington.

"I can understand," the Count said, "the attitude of the Horthy government and why it fears to let me talk, but I cannot understand why Washington should fall into line simply because Glad Vanderbilt married Szechenyi." Europe's problems, Karolyi said, are financial, but economic and social, and "no financier can solve them." Money can at should be loaned, he explained, but not to a gambler unless it is a gamble first that he no longer is a gambler, but will settle down to a honest effort to use the money properly.

"A Call in the Desert." Turning to the State Department and the "gag" it imposed when he came to New York to visit his wife, Karolyi said: "While I protest the gag as unjust, I must admit that it was imposed. My words, by the State Department, taken by action, might have been but a call in the desert. Thanks to the State Department, the whole world now hears them and my cause is helped more through this than the monarchist cause is helped through the millions spent on mean, stupid and lying propaganda."

"I might add that I made a much more violent speech against Horthy in England than is contained in anything I have said here at Montreal. I was not in France and the 'no gag' in Washington Secretary Kellogg did not receive me and I am 'gagged'." Karolyi predicted that a new war would come within five to ten years, if present conditions continue in Europe. When it comes, added, Hungary will find itself in a "stepping stone" to the restoration of monarchism in Central Europe, that "the Hapsburgs under Horthy has simply been a suicide," and that "no peace in the world can save Europe."

"I wanted a Wilsonian Peace. All of Europe's present turn of events could have been avoided, he insisted, had the Allies made a Wilsonian peace and abided by the President's 14 points. "Instead, they abandoned the 14 points and set up European frontiers on the basis of the 1915 London conference," he continued. "Whether I got anyone else is not my business, but these boundary lines are the difference is that Horthy's peace is a peace of the victors."
